Fire Victim Near Death

Man Found In Flames

An elderly Victoria man whose clothing caught fire from a hotplate was fighting for life in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night, suffering from severe burns to the upper body.

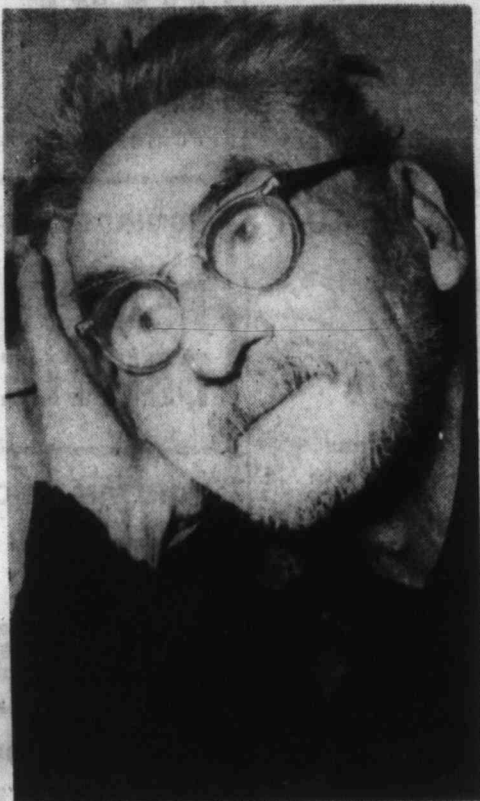

Richard O'Connell, about 70, his clothing burned away to the waist, was dragged from his room at the Lincoln Hotel by another guest at the hotel who did not wish to be identified. The elderly man had apparently fallen over against the hot plate.

SAW SMOKE

"I was sitting in my room when the lights went out, and I went out to the hall to see what happened," his rescuer said. "I saw smoke coming out from under one of the doors, so I went downstairs to get the landlord to open the door, and called the fire department."

"When I got in I found him lying on the floor in the middle of the flames. I dragged him out and the fire department came."

There was no damage to the room except for a hole in the linoleum where the hot plate had rested.

Faces New Start at 81

Pioneer Loses Home to Flames

A Saanich pioneer, whose life-long home and belongings were wiped out by fire yesterday, faces the prospect today of having to start all over again at the age of 81.

Thomas S. Francis has few financial resources, and all his clothes were burned except what he had on when he returned from his mail box to see his six-room frame dwelling going up in smoke.

Even his four cats were lost.

The elderly man said sadly, "unless they took to the woods along with the chickens."

Mr. Francis has no close relatives in the area as far as could be determined last night.

He is temporarily staying at a nursing home operated by Mrs. Geddes Bissett, 402 Brookleigh.

The fire was reported at 11:48 a.m. by a passing motorist and reported to Saanich fire department.

Mr. Francis was then at least a quarter-mile away at his mail box.

"I was only away from the house for about half an hour," he said. "When I came back the whole business was on fire."

The only money he had was carried with him on his mail call. His only income is a meagre pension.

Brothers of Mr. Francis built the historic house in 1890 after the family moved from a log cabin on the same property in which he was born.

Baby 'Overdue' Crowd Lingers

LONDON (UPI)—Crowds lingered outside the iron gates of Buckingham Palace last night in the belief that Queen Elizabeth's baby was now "overdue."

Chill evening forced many to head home early. Princess Margaret, the Queen's sister, left the palace after a visit of an hour and a half and many of the baby watchers drifted away after waving to Margaret.

Embarrassed by Insults

Nikita's Blunders Irritate Indians

Silence Greets Ridicule

By ROY ESSOYAN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev committed a remarkable number of blunders during his five-day goodwill visit to India.

He started out by insulting India's parliamentary system and ended up by ridiculing the underfed nation for accepting a "dole" of American food aid.

EMBARRASSING

In between he embarrassed his Indian hosts whose friendship for the West is on the upswing by using India as platform for repeated attacks against colonialism's "imperialist exploitation."

Khrushchev also irritated Indian officialdom by thoughtless remarks. And his brash and burly security men angered the Indian press by their progressively rough efforts to shield their boss.

PRESS IRRITATED

Indian newspaper men covering the tour were outspoken in their irritation. Some of their papers expressed this irritation in their editorial columns.

Indian officials for the most part maintained silence, but several did little to hide their annoyance.

LOOKED TIRED

None of this was in evidence at the start of the tour. Khrushchev looked so tired and acted so uncharacteristically subdued that veteran observers wondered at the cause. But his spirits picked up as the tour progressed, and he delivered his last jibes—at a banquet on the eve of his departure from Calcutta for Rangoon—bubbling with good humor.

WORST MISTAKE

One of the worst blunders Khrushchev committed was his attack on the Western parliamentary system of "bourgeois democracies" delivered in an address to the Indian parliament last Thursday, the day he arrived in New Delhi.

He said the multi-party political system—which India enjoys—was a device of the capitalist, exploiting class to dominate Western governments.

SAT IN SILENCE

Members of the Indian Parliament sat in silence as Khrushchev's words rang through the hall.

"I think he has under-rated the intelligence of his listeners," an Indian reporter who covered the tour said.

Another Indian's comment: "He seemed to protest too much."

McGee's Life Threatened Over Death Penalty Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank McGee, Toronto MP whose bill to abolish the death penalty for murder will be debated today in the Commons, received a letter Wednesday threatening to "get" him or some of his family if his bill is passed.

The letter came to the 33-year-old Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough from a Montreal address and was unsigned. However, the envelope bore a return address and a man's name.

Mr. McGee, who has a wife and three children, informed the office of Justice Minister Fulton of the threat.

The letter is the first such threat he has received since he became interested in parliamentary abolition of the death penalty for murder. He introduced bills for abolition at the last session of parliament and again this session.

Survey Finds

Trouble Begets Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Superior Court divorce survey shows half the people involved in divorce were from broken homes themselves. Forty-three per cent of the parties knew each other less than a year prior to marriage. In 95 per cent of such cases, either the husband or wife, or both, did not attend church regularly. Three of four court reconciliations remained permanent.

'Code' Cited

Silence Hinders Police

SEATTLE (AP)—An inquest into the death of a stevedore foreman was ordered Wednesday after police reported a "code of silence" on the waterfront had stalled their investigation.

Coroner Leo M. Sowers said the inquest will be conducted Friday in the case of Otto L. Bloss, 61, who died Sunday after a fall from a ship.

WORK HALTS

Meantime, the Ship and Foremen's Association of Washington stopped work for 24 hours, starting at 8 a.m. Wednesday, for Bloss's funeral. The action held up cargo handling of 14 ships and about 1,000 waterfront workers in Puget Sound and Grays Harbor were idle.

Detective Capt. Charles A. Rouse, who requested the inquest, said an important witness has vanished.

REPORTS PERSIST

He said there are persistent reports that a man knocked Bloss over the side of the ship after an argument over hours the longshore crew was to work.

Ordeals Near Climax

Eleven-year fight from death row to escape death sentence for series of sex crimes will end with execution Friday of Caryl Chessman. Among those who kept opposing his bid to escape death were family of one of his several victims, Mary Meza, who has been in mental homes almost ever since his assault on her which judge called "worse than murder."

City Home Robbed Of $1,650 in Cash

Wave of house breakings in Greater Victoria continued last night when $1,650 in cash was stolen from the home of John Slenko, 15 Gorge Road East, between 5 and 8 p.m.

Mr. Slenko and his wife left home for dinner at 5 p.m. and returned at 8 p.m. to find bureau drawers open and savings missing.

Detectives said seven $100 bills and 19 $50 bills were taken along with a revolver, thought to be of .32 or .38 calibre.

Entry was gained by forcing a rear window with a screwdriver.

Several bureau drawers were opened in a bedroom, one of which contained an envelope holding the money. The revolver was taken from a drawer in a second bedroom.

Mr. Slenko told detectives he had planned to put the money in the bank Thursday after reading reports of numerous house breakings in the Greater Victoria area.

NEWCOMERS

The Slenko's recently moved into their new home after coming from Alberta and were waiting for window curtains to be made.

Police said the thief may have thought the house was unoccupied.

Dad Clubs Teacher

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—A father of eight pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of assaulting a woman teacher with a rubber hose.

Sigmund Sort, 37, was arrested at his farm home after police were called to investigate a report that teacher Muriel Boskill had been attacked at Millner school, where five of Sort's children are pupils.

Ike's Reply Welcomed

GENEVA (UPI)—Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said yesterday that he "conditionally welcomed" President Eisenhower's statement that the new Soviet proposal at the nuclear test ban talks here was less rigid than earlier ones.

Tsarapkin said that the President's comment on the Soviet plan for a comprehensive test ban was a "good reaction."

In yesterday's session of the talks, American delegate James J. Wadsworth warned Tsarapkin that the United States Senate would not ratify a test ban treaty unless it provided for an "enormous" number of inspections.

Sunday Laws Hit

Court Defines Pool, Billiards

VANCOUVER (CP)—A magistrate gave a short lecture on the difference between pool and snooker and billiards Wednesday when he acquitted a billiard parlor operator of being open on Sunday.

Magistrate Alexander McDonald also took a swipe at Vancouver's Sunday opening laws which permit bowling but not billiards.

He made his observations during the trial of John Nagel whom he acquitted after saying the charge was not properly drawn on the basis of evidence and that there was no evidence that money had changed hands.

Police testified that they saw pool games but no billiards being played Sunday, Dec. 6. The tables had pockets, they said.

"Billiards proper is played on a table without pockets," said the magistrate.

He said he could see no reason for drawing the line between bowling and billiards. Pool halls had advanced many stages "from when I was in school."

Defence counsel John Macey gave him a measure of support by quoting from an encyclopedia which said the game of billiards is believed to have derived from the game of bowling.

Rats Find Lipstick Worse Than Poison

WASHINGTON (AP)—Laboratory rats fed on a known poison got along better than some which were fed lipstick colors, a government expert testified Wednesday.

The food and drug administration offered evidence to back up its lipstick dye tests as it opened public hearings to defend a ban on 14 coal tar colors.

Included in the rats' diets at amounts varying from one per cent to five per cent for periods of up to five months, the dyes caused deaths in some cases, and injuries ranging from retarded growth to liver, spleen, kidney damage and signs of anemia, FDA pharmacologist Dr. Garth Fitzhugh testified.

Fitzhugh said carbonic acid was fed at levels of one per cent for two years without any effect on tests rats, and in short experiments with two per cent levels there was only a slight side effect on growth.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Millions of starved, sick and homeless people in the world are crying for help. Most Canadians are ignoring them.

This nation's contribution to World Refugee Year is pitifully small. The people of wealthy Canada have given four cents each so far toward helping the world's 15,000,000 refugees. I asked Peter Casson, special representative in Canada of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, what he thought of Canada's effort.

He was polite and tactful. He didn't think the Canadian people had yet realized the need.

Further Schemes?

"How much are we actually giving, per capita?" I asked. "Four cents." "The United States?" "Four and a half cents." The people of Belgium, he added, have given an average of 12 cents each; Britain, 12½; New Zealand, 13; Sweden, 13½; Norway, 60.

Less Than the U.S.

"I would hope that if there are any further schemes to admit further groups of tubercular refugees to Canada, B.C. will find it possible to join the other provinces that have played such a valuable part," he said.

Six provinces are taking tubercular refugees. B.C. is one of the four provinces that are doing nothing.

But the drive to help refugees is catching fire in some Canada had decided to let 100 tubercular refugees into the country, I recalled. Did Mr. Casson think that was a generous number, or too few? He wouldn't take the bait. He declined comment.

"Don't you think British Columbia's failure to take any of the tubercular refugees is a disgrace?" I asked.

Khrushchev Lectures

Burmese Told To Work Hard

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev gave the Burmese an impromptu lecture on Communist history yesterday and advised them to work hard to develop their economy.

He spoke informally to newsmen and Burmese officials after a conference with Premier Ne Win.

There was no official word on what the two prime ministers discussed, but on his arrival Khrushchev said they would talk about "some major problems of our times."

At a garden party, Khrushchev said that what the Burmese needed was "to develop your economy." He told a Burmese editor this would take hard work.

"You can't have economic development by invocations or by the dole alone," he said.

Egg Supports Irk Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—Criticism of government's deficiency payment support program was expressed Wednesday by the Interprovincial Farm Union Council representing about 100,000 farmers from British Columbia to Ontario.

The program on eggs in particular was singled out for attack in a meeting that lasted more than three hours with members of the government including Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The government's view is that alleged inequalities in the egg support program may work out by the time first deficiency payments are due, council leaders said later.

At the same time they quoted Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton as saying that "very active consideration" is being given to providing a domestic price for wheat that would reflect production costs. Also being considered were the council requests that the government assume more of grain storage costs and possible flour subsidies to encourage exports.

'Re-Nazification'

BONN, West Germany, (Reuters)—The West German association of people persecuted under the Nazi regime says there has been "shocking Nazi infiltration" in the West German foreign ministry.

An association spokesman said the foreign ministry provides but one example of "the over-all re-Nazification" going on in West Germany.

The spokesman told a press conference, "The entire foreign office and the diplomatic corps of the federal republic consist to a considerable extent of the same Nazi diplomats as in the Third Reich." He added: "The re-employment of these former Nazi diplomats is a serious burden on the federal republic's reputation abroad."

A foreign office spokesman later rejected the allegations and said that only four of the top officials in the ministry were in the Nazi foreign service.

The association issued a list of 61 foreign office officials, most of them holding senior posts, with an alleged Nazi past.

Sub Pings Again

PUERTO MADRYN, Argentina (UPI)—New sound contacts with at least one mystery submarine manoeuvring along the floor of the Golfo Nuevo spurred Argentine efforts yesterday to trap the suspected foreign intruder.

But the belief grew that the original target of the search, a damaged submarine, had escaped into the open ocean and had been replaced in the gulf by a second sub sent as a decoy. It was believed that the second sub might be moving at slow speed to make the searchers think it was the damaged craft.

No success was reported, however. The Argentine patrol ship Murature, using U.S.-supplied depth charges, laid out extensive lethal patterns in a fruitless effort to force the submarine to the surface.

Official sources said the submarine, apparently damaged, was manoeuvring slowly along the bottom of the gulf at 10 knots, half its normal speed, when detected by the patrol ship King. The King was the same ship which made the original submarine contact off Argentina's Patagonian coastline 19 days ago.

Officers of the King reported that the submarine was manoeuvring extensively despite its reduced speed. They expressed grudging admiration for the skill of the submarine skipper who brought his apparently damaged craft from off the south shore to the middle and deepest part of the 40-mile by 20-mile gulf.

The feat was all the more remarkable since Argentine surface craft blockading the gulf now have been equipped with emergency supplies of the latest in U.S. underwater sound gear.

'Open the Box Right Away' But No—They Need Bishops

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — The world is in such a parlous state that I got in touch with Robert Temple and urged him to open the box right away.

"I'd like to," said the 74-year-old secretary of the Panacea Society, "but we cannot open the box unless there are 24 bishops of the Church of England present."

"And although we've been trying with newspaper advertisements, petitions and other forms of pressure for 44 years, we still cannot persuade enough bishops to gather at the same time."

COPPER NAILS

Miss Southcott was a prophetess who died in 1814, and the society claims that before her death she wrote out a prescription for all the world's ills and had it placed in a large box which was then hammered shut with copper nails and bound with stout cord.

She laid down in her last testament that, if the 24 bishops gathered at a time of crisis and opened the box before a concourse of believers (in her), they would find there in the secret of eternal peace and prosperity for humanity.

CAJOLING EFFORT

There are thousands in Britain and elsewhere who implicitly believe this to be true and the Panacea Society has been able as a result to conduct an expensive advertising campaign in an effort to cajole the bishops.

Its most recent front-page advertisement is headlined: "All the Conferences are Failures."

Temple explained that, since only Joanna Southcott had the secret of peaceful existence, it was natural that the summit and all other international conferences were foredoomed.

His advice to Eisenhower, Khrushchev, Macmillan and company is to save their time and convene the bishops instead.

"To open the box?"

"Certainly," said Temple.

"Where is the box?"

"In safe hands."

"Can I see it?"

"Alas, no—not until the bishops gather."

Temple said they had the right number of bishops in 1918 but the clerics wanted the box opened in private. In 1935, a petition with 31,000 signatures was presented to the Archbishop of Canterbury. But he turned it down.

"We are still hopeful," Temple said, "that before it is too late, the bishops will open the box."

featuring ROGERS GOLDEN SYRUP

ORANGE BABA

Make a sponge, chiffon or angel cake from a mix. When cool—or next day—spoon over the cake this syrup: To one cup of Rogers Golden Syrup add enough fresh or frozen orange juice to make a thin pouring syrup. When the cake has absorbed all the syrup, glaze with heated apricot jam. Use a pastry brush to apply jam. Decorate in a flower design with glaze fruit and almonds.

FRENCH PANCAKES

You'll need one egg for every two people. Beat lightly and stir in enough flour to make a stiff paste. Add a pinch of salt and a good teaspoon of Rogers Golden Syrup for every egg used. Add milk to make a thin batter (like coffee cream). Pour less than enough to cover the bottom, into a hot greased frying pan. Tip until batter covers bottom. Turn almost immediately.

At Others' Expense

LEGISLATION to exempt from local property taxes all non-profit housing schemes for old-age pensioners, which Municipal Affairs Minister Black has announced will be introduced this session, will cause dismay to the Victoria city council. If the City were to oppose this concession too strenuously it would be accused of taking a callous attitude towards the privation of those who have nothing but the pension to live on. Yet if the change goes through there will be one more tax exemption to add to the many which combine to keep the City itself poor.

At the same time those pensioners who own their homes—perhaps as the result of a lifetime of scrimping—and on that account are ineligible for the provincial pension bonus, would be called upon to help maintain others fortunate enough to be housed in tax-exempt quarters.

A good case can be made for exempting these properties from taxes, since by that means the rents charged to the occupants could be reduced. However, while we are wholly in favor of any sound plan that would make things easier for the pensioners—who have spent their lives paying taxes—we regard this as the wrong way to go about it. The senior government should not use its superior power to pass legislation depriving a hard-pressed local body of a source of revenue.

Furthermore, in the particular case of Victoria the burden that would be thrown on the city council would be inequitable. The pensioners' housing projects fathered by public-spirited organizations are mostly located in the city for the pensioners' comfort and convenience. They have also in their initial stages received generous concessions from the City because of their charitable purpose. They are not, however, restricted to residents and former taxpayers of the city, but are open to people from Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Saanich and beyond. Tax exemption therefore would be for the benefit of people for whose relief the City is not in any way obligated.

If the provincial government supporters of this idea want to make good fellows of themselves by passing concessions to aid the aged they should not do it with someone else's money. The fair way to go about this is to exempt the properties from taxation as proposed and then for the government to make to the municipalities concerned grants equal to what normal taxation on the housing projects would produce. Victoria in particular, sympathetic though it may feel towards the idea in principle, cannot afford to provide any more free lodging, burdened as it is with the huge tax-exempt provincial government establishments.

On Its Own

MR. GEORGE GREGORY admits he was joking when he said in the legislature that the arts faculty of UBC should be moved to Victoria, but he was correct in stating that the Point Grey institution was getting too big. Many others besides him have come to the same conclusion. This in fact is one of the reasons for the elevation of Victoria College to university status.

Mr. Gregory was also correct in pointing out that some of the most famous of all universities were located in medium-sized towns. Sheer size of campus and student body is not the criterion of higher education, and a city like Victoria is ideal for the kind of university which is expected to develop here. It has the setting, the atmosphere of social life which is a corollary of higher learning. The present academic record of Victoria College reflects this harmony to a marked degree.

One must dissent however from Mr. Gregory's belief that Victoria

College, or university, would be better off if made an integral part of UBC rather than operating as an affiliate. It would be a retrogression for Victoria to lose its present autonomy and administrative freedoms. The local institution, as Mr. Gregory mentioned, is in fact the progenitor of UBC.

Sooner or later Victoria College will be on its own as a degree-granting university; this is the natural outcome of the developments now taking place and which can scarcely be held back. The current fund-raising campaign is a portent of future progress in that direction.

In fact an opportunity along this line was presented when Premier Bennett invited the college council to apply for a charter to change its name in keeping with its new status. Such a charter might set forth the destiny of a local university more specifically than has yet been proclaimed. It seems a pity that this opportunity has not yet been seized.

Where Were the Rest?

DURING a debate on unemployment in the House of Commons last week 30 members and Mr. Speaker were in their seats. Where were the rest? No member of the cabinet was present, and no parliamentary assistant. Whether "paired" for the day or not, 234 elected members of the House were not there to answer the division bell had it rung. As it turned out a comfortable government majority—it could have been as small as 16—had no difficulty in taking the debate to closing time and so talking it out. That leaves some questions for the electorate to ponder.

The sessional costs of the House do not change much from session to session, save in instances when the members can persuade an administration that they are entitled to higher remuneration. One understands that there is something of a movement on foot in the current session to memorialize the government once more on that score. The arguments are always the same: a private member serves at a sacrifice which involves suspension of his normal vocation and its earnings; the duties of parliament are heavy, and the length of sessions grows; other individuals in the country on a comparative basis earn more. But what does any member of parliament really "earn" if he is not in his seat to consider the business of the country?

Interpreting the News

Reception Is Cooler

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DURING Nikita Khrushchev's stay in India he has done his best to disprove the political axiom that the grievances of today outweigh those of yesterday.

It is unlikely that the Russian leader would have chosen to dwell so heavily on the evils of Western domination and colonial oppression if he had not been aware of India's restiveness over the encroachments of Communist China on her northern border. His deprecation of the border tension, without seeking to assess the blame, was all that could reasonably be expected of him on that subject.

Judging by the reactions of the Indian press, the well-worn theme which served the Communists well five years ago at the Bandung conferences lost some of its appeal.

There have been pointed comparisons between the behavior of Khrushchev and that of President Eisenhower, who played down cold war issues and concentrated his Indian speeches on the theme of friendship between the two countries.

It would be premature to assume that relations between Russia and China have reached the position where Khrushchev is powerless to influence the actions of his ally. He would hardly choose a non-Communist platform as the setting for a lift to a Communist power.

But the Russian leader's reticence, however understandable, has left many Indians with the firm conviction that Khrushchev cannot or will not back an uncommitted friend against a member of the club, regardless of the rights or the wrongs of the issue.

For the neutralist Indians it is a discovery of some importance.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is appropriate that one should dress for the occasion, whether the latter be a funeral, a cocktail party or a picnic barbecue. Society is always graced by some attention to the proprieties, and it is a weak proletarian protest that defies the conventions. A turtle-neck sweater at a lieutenant-governor's New Year levee, for instance, demeans the wearer more than the discourtesy it offers to the host.

The dress-up business can be overdone, however, and one instance seems to be the rule promulgated for the opening in Ottawa later this month of the new National Gallery. Actually the gallery is not new but its habitation will be, and in keeping with the decorations which signal the start of a new court house and the spade-work assigned to the planting of special trees, the gallery's new building will be opened with a flourish of governmental splendor.

It is to be a white-tie affair, a circumstance that has caused much heart-burning among MPs, the CCF members in particular. Some of them do not possess full evening garb, and because of this disability they will be barred from the principal phase of the opening ceremonies. Presumably they can sneak in later to eye the pictures and objects of art, together with the architectural results of the public monies they voted, but not while social eclat holds sway. Such a decision is patently an affront to any MP, none of whom should be under obligation to buy or hire a dress suit for a government function of this kind.

One letter writer in an eastern paper, I notice, taking umbrage at the "full dress and decorations" protocol, suggests that the National Gallery, for all Canadians and not merely military or past-military types who "dress up like plush horses." This is perhaps exaggerating the dissent; military men in the panoply of their fanciest accoutrements are a gallant sight, as is the impeccably arrayed civilian in his white tie and accompanying "tails." I have always remembered how Mr. St. Laurent shone in elegant contrast at the Coronation because of his faultless turn-out amid the multi-uniformed beings who surrounded him. He was propriety perfectly personified.

No such protocol would seem at all necessary at the forthcoming function of the National Gallery, however, and it is surprising that the government should lend itself to such discrimination. The piece de resistance, the prime minister's speech, scarcely requires sartorial support of a specified nature. MPs no matter the leanness of their resources are not likely to appear in incongruous garb even if the white tie and tails are missing.

Nor, perhaps, is art per se aided by this restriction. Indeed it may suggest to some that here is another example of the acolytes displaying "culture" as a diversion of social degree. One had hitherto assumed that irrespective of their artistic instincts MPs could qualify for the mere opening of a new building. It is rather disturbing to learn that they cannot.

THE game of political oneupmanship being played in parliament by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Opposition Leader Lester Pearson is now open and undisguised.

The game is serious, tense, and full of surprises measured mainly in the lengths to which the PM will go to outscore his opponent—as in the Throne Speech debate, and then in the foreign affairs debate which ended on Tuesday.

Foreign Minister Green opened the latter debate with a speech emphasizing the government's optimism over prospects for success in the forthcoming disarmament talks. Green realizes Canada can play a "vital role" as a member of the 10-nation commission which will meet at Geneva a month hence. But as to what the Canadian government would propose at Geneva, the foreign minister said, "I am not at liberty to disclose."

Then Art Smith of Calgary, one of the brighter young Tory backbenchers, spelled out the government's strategy of secrecy in greater detail. It would be "very ill-considered" and even "sheer folly," he said, to tell parliament the kind of pitch the government would make at Geneva. That would be tantamount to telling the Russians, and would "prejudice" this "most important conference the world has ever known so far as disarmament is concerned."

Batting against this fast-breaking curve from Green and Smith, Paul Martin of the Liberals pointed out that Eisenhower, Khrushchev and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had all outlined their governments' disarmament proposals in considerable detail. The former chief delegate to the United Nations recalled the tortuous and fruitless history of disarmament talks of the last decade, and warned against too great optimism over the Geneva talks. Against, it seemed, just the sort of optimism Green had exuded.

Old ballplayer Pearson then stepped up and belted Green's words of optimism into the stands. He pointed out that no disarmament plan can be effective unless it includes Red China. And he criticized the failure to include the Peking regime on the disarmament commission.

Pearson did not go on to say—perhaps because it is so obvious—that Peking would be in a position of massive bargaining strength if it were asked to accede to a disarmament plan devised by the Western world without Chinese participation. The very least China would be likely to demand, and probably as a prelude to its consideration of the proposal, would be general diplomatic recognition, admission to the UN, and Western recognition of Chinese territorial claims on Formosa, Tibet and the Indian frontier.

This is the situation Diefenbaker faced when he went to bat for the Tory team: the delivery of his startling pitcher, Green, was so weak that the opposition had knocked Green all over the ball park. And the crowd might get thinking that the place for Pearson in today's international glitchees was back on the mound. It was important to Diefenbaker that he not strike out.

He didn't. He slammed out a homer by announcing a seven-point Canadian approach to disarmament, including the outlawing of long-range missiles, strategic nuclear weapons, gas and germ warfare, space weapons, and the manufacture of fissile material for military use.

This put Diefenbaker one up on Pearson, but only at a cost of bowing to Liberal demands for a meaty outline of the government's disarmament aims, and of publicly sending Green to the showers—to say nothing of the embarrassed western bench-warmer, Art Smith.

All in all, it was an inning in which both sides scored.

No Dirty Hands

By GREGORY CLARK

AN old schoolmate of mine who has devoted his life to the construction industry was a little amused at my comment, on visiting his latest enterprise, that he appeared to have no Canadian-born among his numerous employees.

Operating the tractors, hoisting the trucks, digging in the clay, hammering at the wooden forms, were Italians, Poles, Germans, men of a great variety of racial origin. Men with bodies.

"Pete, here," he said, "was born in Canada."

Pete was a bean-pole of a young man in spectacles, one of the engineers on the job.

"Three of my five trained engineers," said the boss, "are Canadians."

From the Scriptures

In Him was life: and the life was the light of men.—St. John, 1:4.

But by and large, young Canadians don't want to get their hands dirty. They don't want to get muddy. They don't like slivers in their fingers.

"Aw, now," I protested. "The funny thing is," said my old schoolmate, "all this TV advertising of soap. Millions of dollars spent on selling soap. I guess we must be the most soap-conscious generation since Noah. Yet we've got a generation now that is afraid they'll get their hands dirty. It doesn't make sense."

However, he's quite content with the newcomers: they know about soap.

Mr. Louw to Mr. Mac

Specious Claptrap

By CASSANDRA, from London

MR. Macmillan, as was inevitable, is now the subject of a fierce counter-attack from South Africa

There was a significant pause after the prime minister gently but firmly (and also bravely and determinedly) told the members of the South African government in the best possible place to do it (which was face to face with them in their parliament) what he thought of racial doctrines and apartheid.

He has now been admonished by Mr. Louw, the minister of external affairs. Mr. Louw has had time to collect his thoughts and has rebuked Our Man in South Africa for gross interference.

How many times before have we heard this specious claptrap?

Are the goings-on in other nations sacrosanct in this small and ever-shrinking world?

Are the persecutions that thrive all over the globe to remain conveniently isolated and free from criticism?

Should we have shut up about anti-Semitism in Nazi Germany during the years 1933 to 1939? Should what happened in Hungary be only the private affair of the Hungarians and the Red Army?

And, for that matter, should the escapade of Suez have been a purely Anglo-French affair?

Mr. Louw, at the end of his trivial, guilty rhetoric, asks: "What would be the British reaction if the South African prime minister, while visiting Britain, as a guest of the United Kingdom government, were to ask for a private interview with Sir Oswald Mosley?"

I will tell Mr. Louw. It would be entirely in keeping with the philosophies of Dr. Verwoerd, the prime minister of the Union of South Africa. It would be entirely in keeping with the policies of his notorious predecessors Malan, Strydom and, earlier on, the late pro-Nazi, Oswald Pirow, to want to see Sir Oswald Mosley. Pirow was the guiding force in the mass treason trial now bringing shame to the name of South Africa.

And, since Mr. Louw asks the question, I recall that Pirow did come to London in 1948 to see Sir Oswald Mosley, with whose Union Movement he had links. He was also a sedulous acquaintance of Franco, Salazar, Goering, Hitler, Ciano and Mussolini, all of whom he took great pains to meet and know.

It might well be that if Dr. Verwoerd neglected to see Sir Oswald Mosley on his next visit to London, some Afrikaners might feel he was being discourteous to the ex-Black-shirt fuhrer.

Eau de Moscow

RUSSIA has for the moment silenced her vast network of radio jamming stations that for about 10 years have gibbered and chattered on the frequencies used by the BBC. There are about 2,500 transmitters. They cost nearly a 100,000,000 to build and something like £35,000,000 a year to keep in action.

Mr. Khrushchev has evidently decided that what the BBC has to say to the Russian people is harmless—or that the Communist millions are immune from the blandishments of the West.

Either way it is good news. Any sign of relaxation, no matter how small, is welcome, for when Moscow turns from guns to butter we can all breathe more easily.

I have another straw in the Muscovite wind for you. It is a lavish, very lavish, brochure now being distributed by the trade delegation of the USSR in the United Kingdom and it is devoted to "the fame and popularity won by the produce of the Soviet perfumery industry... the extensive essential oil-bearing plantations scattered throughout the Crimea, the Caucasus and Central Asia yield the Kazabiyk rose, lavender, geranium, basil and many other oil-bearing plants."

My favorite Soviet perfume, as described in the brochure, is "Red Moscow."

"Red Moscow (Krasnaya Moskva)" has an alluring unique aroma. Its fragrance has an exclusive, never-to-be-forgotten undertone. Elegantly bottled, it satisfies the most exacting tastes. The highly popular "Red Moscow" perfume is in tremendous demand.

Next for my money is "Kremlin": "The delightful fragrance of 'Kremlin' (Kreml) eau de Cologne is exclusive. The fancy bottle shaped as one of the Kremlin towers makes it an excellent souvenir."

They'll be making after-shave lotions for the great bearded Red Army next.

Good luck to them—all the perfumes of the Caucasus in Red Square are sweeter than the smell of tank exhausts.

B.C. Debt Free?

Months ago I wrote the minister of finance (Premier Bennett) regarding the high price of drugs. Especially I pressed that vitamins for the old-age pensioner be taken off the tax list.

I received a reply signed by Mr. Gunderson, saying it could not be done, and stating: "We must tax something." It must be remembered that Mr. Bennett crossed the floor of the House on the three per cent tax, and now see what we have got.

Debt-free province! Is our premier trying to be facetious?

Weathering the Storm

We read with interest the article "Island Poultrymen Urged to Weather Price Storm."

Is it realized how long we have already weathered low prices? How long can the producers hold out at below production costs? We find any time we need any repairs done we have to pay exorbitant labor costs, also the price of feed and equipment does not go down.

"The deficiency payment is only helping the part-time poultry farmers." Are not the full-time poultry producers entitled to a living?

Public Power

Mr. Luff doesn't like the CCF sponsoring public power, but his example of British Labor administration of railways is hardly comparable or reasonable.

If he studied the records of the Saskatchewan Power Corporation he would see the benefits of public power.

Mr. Luff may be satisfied with the fantastic rates of the BCE but most of us find them a burden.

Better watch out, Mr. Luff, or the Liberals, Conservatives or even the Sores will be offering you a nomination for your continued efforts in trying to split the ranks of labor and the CCF.

W. A. JENKINS.

Hope Deferred

One of the items included in the Throne Speech at the opening of the present session of parliament dealt with alterations in the present Old Age Security Act and referred to the cancellation of the residence clause and which will allow pensioners to reside outside of Canada and to receive their checks for any length of time. It is true that first reading was given to the bill about one month ago, but since then nothing further has been mentioned.

I believe a number of pensioners are very anxious to know when the new bill will become effective in order that they may make necessary arrangements such as boat and train reservations. It is only natural they wish to take advantage of enjoying this privilege as quickly as possible, as time passes very quickly to people over 70 years of age.

Since the opening of the present session several items of legislation have been dealt with and now we read that a debate on capital punishment will be held on Thursday and if necessary it will also be dealt with the following Monday.

It would seem the government is more concerned with the welfare of those people who commit murder than they are with those citizens who came to Canada 40 to 50 years ago and helped to build up this great land of ours. They lived in Canada in the pioneer days.

W. F. CRESSWELL.

Farmer-Author Seeking Saanich Tory Nomination

A Saanich farmer, author of a book covering the history of his community will seek the Progressive - Conservative nomination in the next provincial election.

Victor Virgin, 6765 Veyness, a Saanich resident since 1946, said he will allow his name to stand at the nominating meeting of the Saanich P.C. Association on March 17 at Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Mr. Virgin is author of the book "The History of North and South Saanich and its Pioneers."

He is a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture and the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association.

Saanich farmer and market-owner William Mattick has not yet decided whether to seek the Tory nomination.

Independent Algeria

Rebels Seek Settler Aid

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — The Algerian Moslem nationalists bid yesterday for the friendship of European settlers in a move to steal a march on President Charles de Gaulle's peace campaign for Algeria.

Ferhat Abbas, premier of the rebel "provisional government" of Algeria, urged the 1,000,000 Europeans in Algeria to drop past privileges and work hand-in-hand with the 9,000,000 Moslems toward establishing an independent Algerian republic.

At the same time he said, as he had in the past, that Algerian nationalists would accept de Gaulle's plan to let Algerians choose their own destiny as long as the choice was absolutely free.

Abbas' statement clearly was designed to show the Moslem population of Algeria that the nationalists were as anxious for a peaceful settlement of the five-year-old Algerian war as was de Gaulle. Abbas will make a second address later this week or early next week, possibly setting out conditions for cease-fire talks with France and naming a negotiating team.

There was little likelihood, however, that the Europeans in Algeria would be pleased by Abbas' speech, particularly since he insisted on complete freedom of choice in any self-determination election.

Colony Taking the Reins

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain yesterday granted the people of British Honduras a greater voice in their government.

In return, the Central American colony pledged "unswerving loyalty" to the Crown and to the person of the Queen.

The agreement, reached in two weeks of talks here, punctured long-cherished hopes of neighboring Guatemala to take over the 8,867-square-mile colony and its 85,000 inhabitants. A statement issued Wednesday night said "complete agreement" on a new constitution was reached by a representative delegation from the colony and colonial office officials.

The new constitution permits the people of British Honduras to elect their own prime minister for the first time.

George Price, leader of the People's United Party, who served on the delegation, is expected to become first prime minister.

His party won all nine elected seats in the legislature in 1957.

British Honduras decided to preface the new constitution with a statement that the people "desire to advance toward self-government within the Commonwealth" and remain loyal to the Crown.

Opportunity to Aid Refugees Waning

Few countries have the capacity to do more in World Refugee Year than Canada, a United Nations representative said in Victoria yesterday, but seven months have gone by and the opportunity is waning with the year.

"There is a very great danger . . . I have reason to fear that Canada may sell the idea short simply by default," said Peter Casson, special representative in Canada of the UN high commissioner for refugees.

BRIDGE NEEDED

The difficulty for many Canadians, Mr. Casson said in an interview, "is to bridge the geographical distance between themselves and the actual refugee problems — not seeing a refugee camp as they go to work in the mornings."

Canada in the past has seen fit as a rule to take only the fit and strong from these camps, he said.

LAST CHANCE

The people living for the last 15 years in these camps see World Refugee Year as their last chance, he said.

He will speak at a public meeting tonight at 8 in the First Baptist Church auditorium. Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, former director-general of the UN technical assistance program, will be chairman.

Labor Body Passes Up Refugee Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — An appeal for stateless refugees was passed up by Vancouver Labor Council (CLC) after two union speakers protested that there was enough charity work to do in Canada.

William Giesbrecht of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), speaking as a member of the Vancouver committee for World Refugee Year and of the VLC's human rights committee, asked council delegates to support the international program for settling homeless Western Europeans.

He said the poverty in which they live is incomparably worse than anything Canadians could imagine.

"That's all right, but we'd better start looking after our own problems," said Orville Braaten of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (CLC). "We have cripples, we have the Heart Foundation looking for money . . ."

Defence Secretary Stunned

Air Force Manual Links Reds, Church

Public's Right to Know Branded Foolish Idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defence secretary Thomas S. Gates, Jr., was reported "startled and stunned" yesterday by the contents of an air force reserve training manual which linked churches with Communism and termed the public's right to know as foolish.

The series of quotes brought a vehement protest from the National Council of Churches which was criticized by name in the publication.

RUSH TO CAPITAL

Officials of the council, representing 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations, hurried to Washington to demand an immediate meeting with Gates.

The council has requested Gates to order the recall of all copies of the manual and to explain how it was issued.

TRAINING TEXT

Used as a text for a training course for non-commissioned officers in the air force reserve, the manual contained these quotes:

• "Communists and communist fellow travellers have successfully infiltrated our churches."

• "It is well known that even the pastors of certain of our churches are card-carrying communists."

• "The National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. officially sponsored the revised standard version of the Bible. Of the 95 persons who served on this project, 30 have been affiliated with pro-communist fronts, projects and publications."

• "Another foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on. Most people realize the foolishness of such a suggestion."

KEEP IN MIND

"Keep in mind that public news media present only as much information as the government wants to release."

"We cannot escape the impression, the church council said, 'that there is, by carelessness or intent, a pattern of un-American activities which has permeated official manuals of the air force and its commands."

Sharp Drop Brings Bulls Into Open

NEW YORK (UPI)—It took a bargain-priced stock market—crumbling to a new low since Dec. 29, 1938, at mid-session—to bring the bulls out of hiding en masse.

Prices recovered sufficiently in the afternoon session to give the industrials an upside edge in their average. The industrial group showed a loss of more than 6 in the prenoon break when tapers ran three minutes behind transactions.

The tape was late twice thereafter, once during the third hour and again at the close in the rush to buy stocks. Trading, at 4,210,000 shares, was the heaviest since May 7, 1939. Volume on Tuesday was 3,270,000 shares.

Electronics stood out among the gainers, with steels, some chemicals and autos, and scattered specials registering a good number of gains.

Some brokers said hopefully the market may have experienced that long-awaited selling climax in the prenoon move. Until the recovery move, industrials had dropped around 80 points since hitting an all-time high in their average last Jan. 5.

Stelco Makes Gains

TORONTO (CP)—A late rally near the close of moderately heavy trading brought the stock market out of the doldrums.

Industrials, which earlier lost more than 5½ points on index and struck a new 1939 low for the third consecutive day, recovered and leaped ahead 1½ points near the close.

Steel Company of Canada recorded the best gain of the day going up 1½ at 76½.

Goodyear Tire sustained the biggest loss going down 5½ points at 160 on a small turnover.

Mines were brisk Wednesday. Falconbridge was ahead ½ at 30½ and McIntyre-Porcupine advanced ½ at 25½.

International Nickel led 1½ at 99½.

New Lows Reached

MONTREAL (CP)—Despite a spirited rally late in the day, all averages went to new lows in moderate trading.

Abitibi climbed ½ at 36½ in papers. Anglo Newfoundland rose ¼ at 7½. Consolidated de spread and in some instances substantial.

At 25, Great Lakes dipped ½ at 38½. Powell River slipped ½ at 15 and Bowater eased ½ at 30.

Both Hudson Bay and International Nickel dropped 1 at 47 and 99½ respectively in base metals while aluminum was off ½ at 30.

Drop in MacPovell

VANCOUVER.—MacMillan-Powell took the industrial average down with a drop to $15½. Westminster Paper was also off 50 cents at $35½. Canadian Collieries added 25 cents at $9½.

Mines were fairly active, and changes were small. Giant Masco was 23½ cents and Cowichan eased to 32 cents under fair volume. Towest was weak at 12 cents, but Silbak held firm at 25 cents.

Budget to Ease Money Ills?

Balance 'Best News'
Says Investment Dealer

A better financing atmosphere for provinces and municipalities is foreseen by Norman J. Alexander, president of the Investment Dealers Association.

Mr. Alexander, who was B.C. manager of James Richardson & Sons in Vancouver before moving to head office in Winnipeg, said that the best news Canada had had for several years was that the federal government expected to balance its budget in the coming fiscal year.

If this was done, he said, the provinces and municipalities would not have to compete for new funds with the federal government, and they would be able to do more of their financing in the domestic market.

Hundreds of millions of dollars would have to be invested in Canada this year, and the less that had to be borrowed abroad the better, said Mr. Alexander. Raising funds outside of the country tended to phases of the company's operations.

The net profit was $25,602,000 ($1.25 a share) while in 1938 it was $20,518,000 ($1 a share).

Mr. Alexander was unable, however, to predict that interest rates would show any substantial decline in the near future.

ALUMINUM RESULTS

The preliminary 1939 report on Aluminum Ltd. indicates that only a minor improvement had been effected in the earning capacity of the company, from the levels experienced in 1938.

The net profit was $24,000,000 (79 cents a share) against $22,500,000 (74 cents a share) in 1938. But it was still well

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most grains, especially flax, showed a weak tone at the close, prompted in part by declines on U.S. markets.

Flax prices declined sharply on liberal selling from commission houses and American interests. July and October contracts reached new seasonal lows.

Texada Mines Appeal Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—Argument was continued in the Supreme Court of Canada Wednesday in an appeal by Texada Mines Limited of Vancouver against the validity of the British Columbia Mineral Property Taxation Act.

The company, owner of iron-ore property on Texada Island, argued that the legislation is not within provincial jurisdiction because it imposes an indirect tax, a field reserved for the Federal Parliament.

Mainland Chest Loses Heart After Heart Foundation Quits

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Heart Foundation withdrew Wednesday from the Community Chest of Greater Vancouver.

A Chest spokesman said the loss of this cornerstone agency threatens the entire Community Chest structure here. He predicted other agencies will follow the Heart Foundation out of the 65-agency Chest.

Heart Foundation president W. C. R. Jones said his group was leaving the Chest simply because it needs more money for research, education and rehabilitation than the Chest can supply.

Mr. Jones urged the public to continue to support the

More to Go Official Predicts

Chest's Red Feather fund campaign.

Ross Wilson, president of the Chest, predicted the organization will begin this year either to disintegrate or—if public opinion is behind it—to revive.

Reporters who asked 50 of the remaining 64 agencies found that none were ready to join the Heart Foundation in quitting.

The Chest has failed to meet its annual fund quota 10 times in the last 11 years. Its 1959 target was $3,121,542. It has raised $2,656,669 to date, with donations still dribbling in.

Mr. Wilson said: "There is a growing trend on the part of major agencies to break away from the Chest."

He said losing the Heart Foundation was like losing a cornerstone — "The whole structure has been weakened. Neither I nor the other directors of the Chest expect this withdrawal to be the last. We may very well see some others in the months immediately ahead."

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

DRY THOSE TEARS: This is a sad story. It's the tale of a curler who would look out of place among the stylish shotmakers who reach the Canadian final, never believed he'd ever have a chance to get there, got the only chance he'll ever have, and didn't make it. It's difficult to know at the moment whether or not the disappointment is bigger than the excitement of coming close.

And it was close, although one might be charged with presumption for believing that Tony Gutoski would have earned a second chance to win the Brier Tankard had he qualified for the provincial final through the B.C. Brier. But until those two nerve-wracking—and heart-shattering—defeats which slammed the (back) door in his face when he had both feet on the stool, Tony had 'em all worried. He was never better himself, Gary Leibel was consistently making the "big" shots demanded of a third man in his first Consols try at the position and Gordie Robertson at second rocks was more than holding his own with his opposition.

All of us perhaps forget the shots which help but those two Thursday losses—to Lyall Dagg by 8-6 and Glen Harper by 5-4—needed so little to have been victories and the worst that should have happened was to have had a split.

Against Dagg, the score was 7-6 heading home and advantage of last rock was with Tony. On his first shot, he had to skim by a guard to chip shot rock, didn't get quite enough of it as he moved it to the back of the eight-foot ring squarely on the centre line. Dagg was shot by about an inch over two rocks on the sides of the eight-foot directly on the tee line.

Dagg drew into the front of the four-foot and Tony, correctly, went for the win by trying to raise for a double. He missed by an inch.

Against Harper, a sixth-end draw was six inches too heavy, made the score 4-2 for the Duncan rink instead of 2-3 against. It's quite a difference in a game which ended 5-4.

But it's gone, that chance, and the only consolation is that the final was Harper vs. Dagg.

HAD IT COMING: And Harper had that Brier trip coming to him. The 30-year-old Duncan icemaker had been blocked until this year by his Victoria counterpart in zone play. And when he tried, and made, the back-door in the 1958 B.C. Brier at Penticton, he again ran afoul of Gutoski, losing the third game of the best-of-three final by less than a quarter of an inch.

That was as close as anyone can get without getting there and Harper must have been thinking of that last game in Penticton when he made certain in Kelowna that Gutoski wouldn't be among his opposition.

Joshed that he should have let Gutoski into the B.C. final to help him knock off some of the "good" rinks, a happy Harper grin accompanied the reply that "one of those good rinks might be us."

In any event, British Columbia's Brier hopes are in good hands and while the odds may be against the trophy case at the Duncan Curling Club featuring that coveted Tankard, Glen Harper, Harvey Hodge, Fred Duncan and Vern Kaspick are a curling crew that better not be taken lightly by the more nationally-known combinations at Fort William next month. They shouldn't be worse than 6-4 (in games) at the finish, could be one-two (in the standings) if they crank up together at the right times.

FINAL HAPPY NOTE: The Duncan rink will leave for Fort William with more than moral support. Yesterday, Opposition-leader Robert Strachan announced that the B.C. government is to make a grant of $400 to be used "for suitable wearing apparel."

On top of that, North Cowichan, the city of Duncan and the Duncan Curling Club will each put up one-third of the cost of the new Indian sweaters the rink will wear in the Canadian final. All this along with the regular grant from the B.C. Curling Association will almost be enough to assure there will be no financial loss in representing the province in the Canadian championships.

EXTRA END: Anyone who thinks B.C. curling isn't improving rapidly should have been at the B.C. Brier. It WAS the toughest yet... you'll be hearing more of Lyall Dagg, who once put in a spell in the Colonist sports department. He's got the shots, is a sound skip and one of the best at reading ice... and, unfortunately, you'll be hearing less and less of popular Reg Stone. The Trail veteran will be hard to beat for a while yet but he's past his peak and the competition is increasingly tough... for those who wondered when Tony Gutoski was so badly off form in club play-downs there is no need to worry. He was probably the stand-out individual curler at Kelowna and will likely be carrying Victoria hopes for some years yet.

Home in One Piece

Victoria-curler Elmer Hoffman arrived back home this week after touring Scotland with the Canadian Strathcona Cup team loaded down with club pins and memories. But neither is causing that list to starboard and the can't is not for added dignity. During the course of playing 41 three-hour games—about 15 ends each on the average—he picked up a sore back, too.—(Colonist photo.)

First Five Vic Runners

Victoria High School runners swept the first five places in the cross-country race for the T. Eaton Trophy held Wednesday from University School. John Valiant won the 4.3 mile race in 22 minutes, 23 seconds, finishing 12 seconds ahead of Alf Lincoln. Third was Eric Carlsen, fourth, Alan Valiant, and fifth, Gary Kidson. Jeremy Long, Shawinigan Lake School, was sixth.

A best-of-five series between Navy and Nanaimo will open Saturday night at Nanaimo. Second game will be played Monday night at 8.30 at Memorial Arena.

Navy carried a safe series lead into the final period of Wednesday's game but had to go all out to win the actual game. Pattersons led 4-3 at that point and an upset appeared in the making.

But Navy struck back with three unanswered goals. Dave (Bunker) Hiff tied the score at 4-3 and fired the eventual winner 24 seconds later.

Neil Standley added an insurance goal for Navy, his second of the game, with 24 seconds remaining. John Morris and Carl Christaens scored other Navy goals.

No Replacement for Cougars

Schmautz Out for Season

Arnie Schmautz, pepper-pot rightwinger who may have been the most valuable player on the club, will be lost to the Victoria Cougars for the balance of the season.

While Schmautz is not considered in any danger, head injuries suffered in Tuesday night's Western Hockey League game in Winnipeg have proven more extensive than first supposed and there is no chance he will be permitted to play again this season.

Schmautz hit his head on the ice after being checked by rookie-defenceman Gary Bergman and suffered a linear fracture of the skull, just above the left ear. Further examination disclosed that there was a slight tear in the brain covering.

This condition will usually heal itself and it is not expected that an operation will be necessary. However, it will probably be a minimum of six weeks before Schmautz would be allowed to play again.

"There is little chance that he will play again this season," Dr. Reg Wride reported yesterday. "He couldn't be subjected to any bodily contact for perhaps as much as eight weeks."

Scheduled league play ends on March 20.

Dr. Wride, who ministers to the aches and pains of the Cougars as club physician, was in touch yesterday with the Winnipeg doctor who has Schmautz as his patient.

At the moment, no replacement is in sight for Schmautz, who had 22 goals and 34 assists, and the Cougars may finish the season with nine forwards.

Sophomore Don Blackburn took over Schmautz' spot on a line with Art Jones and Gordie Fashaway while centre Gerry Goyer, obtained only last week from Seattle, played between Doug Anderson and Doug Macauley.

Two thousand "doves of peace" will be released and the Winter Olympics flag will be passed on from Italy, where the last Winter Games were held in 1956 at Cortina d'Ampezzo.

Richard Nixon, vice-president of the United States, will speak the simple prescribed words that will set the games in motion the following day: "I now declare open the Olympic Games of Squaw Valley celebrating the eighth Winter Olympics."

The weather forecast is fair with light winds and moderately crisp temperatures.

There will be a choir of 2,645 voices; former Olympic champion Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence, representing the host country, will ski down Little Papoose Peak with the flaming Olympic torch, turning it over to fellow American champion Ken Henry who will skate the final lap into the main arena. There the big Olympic torch will be ignited from the flame flown to the United States from Norway.

Bull's Job Words Not Deeds

LONDON (UPI) — Lord Birdwood is back from the United Nations and he has a story to tell.

Lord Birdwood, a delegate to the world body's last session, told an audience yesterday about a "very under-developed country which applied for aid to improve its cattle." This is his story:

The United Nations dispatched a bull to the nation. No improvement was reported. Lord Birdwood said the U.N. sent an investigator to find out why no progress.

"What's wrong?" the investigator asked the bull. "I am a representative of the United Nations," the bull replied. "I am only here in an advisory capacity."

Jobs Issue Again

500,000 'Out' In January

OTTAWA (UPI) — Unemployment returned to the political forefront yesterday with release of a government estimate that 504,000 Canadians were looking for work by mid-January.

The jobless figure, up 134,000 from the previous month, but still 34,000 below a year ago, immediately produced an attempt by the Liberal opposition to interrupt normal Commons proceedings for an emergency debate on the subject.

TURNED DOWN
The move by H. J. Robichaud (L. Gloucester) was turned down by Speaker Roland Michener on the grounds that it did not conform with the necessary provisions for such action.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker agreed, however, to broaden a debate on the winter works program scheduled for Friday to permit discussion of the general unemployment problem.

ANY TIME
"This government is ready at any time for a discussion on this subject," the prime minister said.

Robichaud said the Liberals wanted an immediate debate because "so little has been done to meet this unfortunate situation." He singled out in particular such distress areas as Elliot Lake and Bancroft, Ont., and Picton County, N.S.

JOBS FALL

The government survey reported as well that the number of Canadians with jobs fell to 3,669,000, down 162,000 from mid-December. Compared with 1959, however, there were 161,000 more persons at work.

The 504,000 without jobs and seeking work represented 8.1 per cent of the total labor force of 6,203,000. Last year 8.9 per cent of the force were unemployed.

Sidney Stores May Open Friday Night

The Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce will tap views of village merchants on staying open Friday nights.

Member Ted Martin suggested a large volume of village business was going to Victoria because local merchants were not open. Friday openings were tried before but not all village merchants participated.

"Trading stamps" were opposed by the chamber after past president M. R. Eaton said customers lost more than they gained with the "give-away gimmicks."

The chamber voted not to support any move to introduce stamps into the province.

Lack of Loans Still Pinches

Walker Introduces Bill to Raise Ceiling on Aid to House Builders

OTTAWA (UPI) — A reduction in housing construction this year as a result of a decline in housing loans was forecast by Works Minister David Walker yesterday.

Walker told the Commons that a "considerable" decline in direct government and private lending for housing would result in a reduction of housing starts in 1960.

"It is unlikely that private insured loans in 1960 will be higher than in 1959 and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation loans are likely to be a good deal lower," Walker said.

The works minister spoke on the introduction of a bill to raise the ceiling on the amount of direct lending by the Crown lender CMHC from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000, and increase the $4,000,000,000 limit on the amount of mortgages CMHC may insure, to $5,000,000,000.

"The present economic outlook for 1960 calls for a substantial decline in direct CMHC lending," Walker said. He said the government hoped to put out only about $175,000,000 of the $500,000,000 which would be made available in additional housing loan funds.

Last December Walker predicted that starts would be made on some 125,000 houses during 1960. Of this figure, 85,000 were expected to be financed by conventional lenders, 25,000 with government-insured loans and 15,000 with direct government loans from CMHC. There were 141,000 housing starts in 1959.

Despite the government's decision to increase the interest rate for private lenders from 6 to 6 1/2 per cent, housing loans by private lenders may not be as high as in 1959, he said.

The position of bank lending was "uncertain," Walker said, although there probably would be an increase in participation by life insurance, trust and loan companies.

The decision to boost the ceiling on CMHC loans by $500,000,000 came after the corporation ran out of loan funds last fall. The government later decided to lift the interest ceiling for private lenders in an effort to increase the flow of private loan funds.

Walker said the government's fiscal position also would influence the number of housing starts this year. He said the benefits of direct mortgage lending by CMHC would have to be "weighed against the broader fiscal difficulties" involved in continuing the housing pace of the last two years.

The extra $500,000,000 was expected to "last for some time," Walker said.

"Last year the corporation committed about $350,000,000 for mortgage lending purposes," he said. "This year we would like to cut this amount substantially, perhaps by as much as one-half."

No Plates, No Licence Embarrassing Problem

OMAK, Wash. (AP)—As deputy auditor, Mrs. Alice Brown has been issuing new licences to Okanogan county drivers. Tuesday she was stopped by a state patrolman for failing to have 1960 plates on her own car.

To make matters worse, the officer found Mrs. Brown had failed to renew her driver's licence on her birthday last June.

Ease Quotas Europe Urged

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada and the U.S. Wednesday called for elimination of all remaining import quota discriminations in world trade.

They suggested also that highly industrialized countries, such as those in Europe, should be prepared to take a larger share of low-cost manufactured goods now flooding North American markets from such suppliers as Japan, Hong Kong and India.

However, a communique issued by the cabinet members of the joint U.S.-Canadian trade and economic committee indicated that the two countries found less ground for agreement on a number of domestic issues.

Canada asked for the removal of U.S. import curbs on flaxseed, linseed oil, cheddar cheese, lead and zinc.

NO INDICATION

The U.S. gave no indication what it would do about the agriculture products but said the U.S. restrictions on lead and zinc cannot be withdrawn until "there has been substantial improvement in the distressed segments of the U.S. lead and zinc mining industries."

The U.S. also rejected a Canadian request for withdrawal of its subsidy on textile exports.

On its part, the U.S. asked for removal of Canadian import controls on turkeys and withdrawal of a new Canadian toll on U.S. planes flying over Canadian territory on North American routes.

The Canadians gave no undertaking on the turkeys request but rejected the U.S. request on the air tolls, which cover "only a part of the large and growing costs of air navigation."

Roofing Firm Extends Stay

Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd. may continue some of its operations in Victoria for the rest of this year and possibly longer, city council waterworks committee was told yesterday.

H. M. Dayton, representing the firm, asked for continuation of the special water rate the company has had for years after the contract expires in August.

He indicated the company may even increase its Victoria staff of 53 by working seven days a week instead of five.

Famished Pet Boa Turns Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Collin Kent has the hungriest boa constrictor in the west. The seven-foot South American snake—pet of 17-year-old Collin—was found curled around the motor and wires of the automatic washer in Collin's home — more than two months after he disappeared from his cage.

As far as the family can figure out, the snake hadn't eaten since he disappeared. He was thin but active when found.

Collin had to unbolt the washer to get the snake out.

'Brain' Mass-Produces Decisions; Reads, Writes

TORONTO (CP)—A business computer which "can make 303,000 logical decisions a second" is announced by International Business Machines. Also in one second, says IBM, the new system can electronically "read" or "write" 312,500 characters of information; or it can add or subtract 78,000 six-digit numbers. Called IBM 7080, the company says it "can produce management reports and process payrolls, inventory controls, billing similar accounting jobs up to 10 times faster" than was possible on the previous system called IBM 705.

Belafonte Voted Top Personality

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Belafonte was named the outstanding personality of 1959 by the American Guild of Variety Artists Wednesday night. Frank Sinatra and Ella Fitzgerald were named the outstanding male and female singers of the year. The winners received small gold statuettes called a "Joey" in honor of the guild's president, Joey Adams. The comic presented the awards at a banquet attended by about 1,500 show people, civic and government leaders. Other winners:

Jimmy Durante, outstanding male comic; Carol Burnett, outstanding female comic; Carol Haney, female dancer; Louis Prima and Keely Smith, variety group; Maurice Chevalier, international award; Emmet Kelly, circus performer. Trudie Adams, most promising female singer; Jerry Vale, most promising male singer; Shelly Berman, most promising male comic, and Sue Carson, most promising female comic. It was the first annual presentation of the awards.

Success as Cop, Flop as Crook

LONDON (AP)—As a cop, who could think like a crook, Constable Norman Williams, 28, earned seven commendations for catching thieves. As a crook trying to think like a cop, he was a flop and got 18 months in jail. On Christmas Eve, he decided to break into a clothing store on his old beat. He thought no policeman would suspect a man carrying a parcel and a bunch of flowers. He stole a bunch of 30 chrysanthemums, then broke into the clothing store and made up a parcel of shirts, handkerchiefs, slippers, neckties, mufflers and sweaters. As the burglar alarm went off, he strolled away with his parcel and his bunch of flowers. A police car passed him but the men inside took no notice. But when they searched the clothing store, they found a chrysanthemum petal. The clue led them to Williams. He was found guilty at the Old Bailey of stealing clothing worth £56 ($148.32) and the tell-tale chrysanthemums.

"Young people, students, workers and school children carry vodka to the cliffs... after that, the cliffs do not appear dangerous. They throw bottles over the cliffs because they like the sound of breaking glass—the cliffs are covered with broken bottles."

City Architect Insists

'Crackerbox' Housing Can Be Eliminated

JOHN DI CASTRI... 'new thinking'

Victoria architect John Di Castri has proposed a method by which "crackerbox" housing subdivisions and "three-layer-cake" apartment houses can be eliminated. Only "catch" is that his plan calls for "new thinking" on the part of home owners, contractors, designers and legislators. He told the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, North that future group housing could be designed as cheaper "high density units" accommodating more families and offering each one the space of a normal size house. There would also be balconies, sun decks, roof gardens and a large park area surrounding the modernistic, roomy structure. The building industry is 20 years behind time and has not caught up with the machine age, he charged. "So many people are house poor, they've gone in over their heads" trying to pay for homes that have been constructed by the obsolete method of nailing one board on top of another. The industry should make use of prefabricated units wherever possible to cut the financial burden placed upon the buyer, and the buyer should demand that such changes be made, Mr. Di Castri said. The era of the "plastic house is still a long way off," he said, "but it's time to do away with the two-by-fours which require six nails here and six nails there and replace them with prefabricated units flexible enough to offer variations in design." He pointed out that contractors are paying carpenters $2.50 an hour to do the work they were paid $2 a day for 20 years ago. "The only way we'll get action (on the housing problem) is through you. If you shout loud enough and long enough, something will happen," he said.

Douglas Hits Back

REGINA (CP) — Many people don't go to a doctor until it's too late for fear of the burden sickness will add to their finances, says CCF Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan.

"It should not be beyond the integrity of man to find a way to enable people to protect themselves against crippling effects of costly illness while at the same time retaining the maximum amount of freedom and initiative for the medical profession."

OUTLINES PLANS

The premier was replying Wednesday to criticisms of the speech from the throne by Liberal house leader A. H. McDonald. He was also outlining plans of the CCF government's pre-paid compulsory medical care plan.

People Fear Cost Burden

There is definite need for a compulsory medical plan, the premier said, quoting a national 1951 sickness survey which showed low income groups, with the most sickness, were getting less medical care than high income groups.

Medical care plans are expected to become a hot political issue this year with a June provincial election in the offing. Legislation involving setting up a 10-member committee to make recommendations on the Saskatchewan plan was outlined in the throne speech.

The 14-member Liberal Opposition is proposing a private enterprise plan similar to one in operation in the province already.

NOT LIKE U.K.

No one in the government, Mr. Douglas said, is advocating the British plan, introduced to serve an industrial people and unsuited to the needs of Saskatchewan.

The CCF plan, the premier said, will enable people to pay a small amount to take care of them when they are sick.

OTTAWA (CP)—A voluntary association of the Catholic hierarchy in Canada said Wednesday the state not only has the right but also "the duty and the moral obligation from God" to inflict capital punishment, if necessary.

Pier Now for Sale, Not Comfort Station

LOOE, England (Reuters)—This Cornish fishing village Wednesday decided to sell its pier instead of its newly-built comfort station to raise funds for the World Refugee Year campaign.

Mayor Edward Walke explained: "We just could not bring ourselves to sell the convenience because it got a special architectural award as the best building of its kind in this part of the country. Everybody is proud of that."

The banjo-shaped pier will be auctioned Tuesday to help Looe reach its refugee year target of £500.

Bust Terrible or Wonderful? Viewers Disagree

Peggy Walton Packard's bust of Queen Elizabeth is like many things at city hall—about 50 per cent of those who see it think it's good and about 50 per cent think it isn't. That's the score according to city employees who have listened to the comments of passersby in the entrance hall, where the statue stands waiting for council to say if it should stay there, be placed in Beacon Hill Park as originally intended or be sent to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. The decision probably will be made next Thursday. Meanwhile — and perhaps thereafter — observers will continue to disagree on its merits.

"Some say it's terrible and some say it's a wonderful likeness," said one city employee. "But most people don't like the rectangular column forming part of it." Mrs. Packard herself is on record as not being too enthusiastic about the results of her work. But Colin Graham, curator of the art gallery, took a different view yesterday. "From photographs," he said, "I thought it was ghastly. But when I went down and looked at it I found the case very much different. I find the expression on the face a very pleasant one." A good likeness? "Well," he said, "every photograph of the Queen is different."

A commission such as this, Mr. Graham said, "always presents the hardest problem an artist can face. It has to be a likeness and a work of art, and fit into a particular position. From an artistic point of view, that's a great problem."

Highway Location Criticized

The highway extension opening up the northern end of Vancouver Island has been proposed in the wrong location and with the wrong terminus, according to former mayor Claude Harrison.

Following the east coast north of Kelsey Bay, he told the Colonist, would be "the gravest mistake," and the terminus and ferry centre should be Port McNeill, not Port Hardy to the northwest.

LOCATION VITAL

"It is vital that the road be in the proper location if Vancouver Island is to be anything," he said.

The coast between Kelsey Bay and Port McNeill, he said, is extremely difficult terrain, and without harbors. A far better way to reach Port McNeill would be by Upper Campbell Lake, the Hober River valley and the Nimpkish trench through the centre of the island, skirting west of Nimpkish Lake over an old rail grade.

The terminus, he said, must have a good harbor, and Hardy Bay is open to the northeast, exposed to "a great sweep" of open water. Port McNeill is guarded by Ledge Point and a chain of islands, and is in a better location, Mr. Harrison said, to serve a large population on the mainland and coastal islands.

Chief Urges Caution

Don't Invite Thefts Oak Bay Warned

A warning to stop leaving invitations to burglars was issued last night by Chief Robert Smith of Oak Bay following reports of four break-ins in the municipality.

The burglaries apparently all occurred overnight Tuesday, although two were not reported until late Wednesday. In each case, they took place while the occupants of the houses were out, and it is not known exactly what or how much was stolen.

Fix 'Worst' Streets Unionists Demand

Victoria Labor Council last night called on city council to institute an immediate public works program to repair the "deplorable state" of city streets.

"I realize this is rushing where angles fear to tread," said IWA delegate Ed Haw. "There's bound to be a tax increase hidden somewhere if the job is done."

"But I certainly don't think there's a city anywhere in North America that has worse streets than Victoria."

"What about Saanich?" shouted a delegate from the back. With present unemployment, Mr. Haw said, planning should begin now for an early start on the program. He sharply criticized the "undermining" of downtown streets and "deplorable" arterial roads leading from the city centre.

In other council business delegates:

● Approved resolutions for consideration at the Canadian Labor Congress convention on world disarmament and exchange of trade unionists with other democratic countries.

● Passed a resolution calling on the federal government to investigate "unreasonable costs" claimed by drug manufacturers and urging the government to go into the drug manufacturing business.

Other aldermen were unavailable for comment.

It's just about the right amount of money," Ald. Edgewood said, "and would start the thing off well. It could accomplish much in raising interest to get an auditorium going."

Acting Mayor Millard H. Mooney said he would favor a contest for an auditorium design as long as the specifications for the contest were suitable for Victoria's needs.

FINE IDEA
Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson described a contest as a fine idea.

"We would have more diversified plans to choose from and also I believe a contest like this gives a lift to the architects," she said.

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean said that "if we are going to have an auditorium, we should have the most beautiful and useful structure we can get, and if I were convinced that a contest would help, I would be for it."

Other aldermen were unavailable for comment.

To Expand Home Nursing

VON, Public Health Nurses To Work as Team—Martin

The Victorian Order of Nurses and the public health nursing services will work together to expand home-nursing service in British Columbia, Health Minister Eric Martin announced yesterday.

The VON now operates a home-nursing service in the Victoria and Vancouver areas, and isolated coverage in rural areas.

Public health officials will co-operate with VON authorities to expand home-care programs in the areas now served by the VON, Mr. Martin said.

Basic public health nursing services also include a home-nursing program which provides a firm foundation upon which services can be expanded, it was pointed out.

An expanded home-nursing program is in operation in nine areas of the province now. This year's estimates show home health services are to receive $114,000, an increase of $102,000 to launch the program in all other areas.

Mr. Martin said the government is planning a program to aid non-profit groups in providing more nursing-home beds, much like the system used by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service to spur construction to provide more hospital beds.

A decentralized type of nursing assistance to enable many patients to stay in their own homes and close to family and friends was the aim, Mr. Martin said.

An intensive survey is being planned to pinpoint the number of nursing home beds available in each community area, and to estimate the requirements.

"We hope to proceed at quite a fast pace," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin said nursing home patients who require good nursing care and periodic medical attention, but have little chance of complete cures, will not come under the chronic care program going into effect this year.

The proposed plan will be known as "the rehabilitation, chronic treatment, and convalescent plan," Mr. Martin said.

Chronic patients who require in-patient hospital care, but not in major hospitals, also will get attention, Mr. Martin added.

He said a patient of 75 who has a reasonable possibility of improvement to the extent that he can return home for even a few months, will be considered a rehabilitation patient just as much as a youth who will be fit enough to take employment when his treatments have been completed.

"The proposed plan will be known as 'the rehabilitation, chronic treatment, and convalescent plan,'" Mr. Martin said.

Future at Stake

New Highway Route Worry to Sidney

Sidney-North Saanich chamber of commerce is worried about the route of the new highway.

Mr. Hulme said a location had been laid out by surveyors that had the road coming out at Sanscha Hall on Eighth Avenue.

Member S. R. Gibbs said the immediate future of Sidney depends on that section of the highway.

Teachers Dismayed?

Greater Victoria school board was asked yesterday to study the possibility of broadcasting its proposed program of televised lessons over the local station.

The proposal won some support from schools superintendent John Gough, but he felt teachers might be dismayed at the thought of parents being able to watch their teaching lessons on home TV sets.

REVISED COSTS

W. C. Gelling, school board chairman, said trustees would look into the matter and promised to bring before individual councils revised cost estimates if the "open circuit" project proved feasible.

Yesterday's meeting, attended by representatives of all four local municipalities, was called to discuss the 1960 school budget of $7,909,429 but, as expected, most of the discussion centred around the $19,550 earmarked for a pilot closed-circuit TV project at S. J. Willis Junior High School starting in September.

CART FIRST?

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay charged trustees with "putting the cart before the horse" in failing to consider the over-all cost of a closed-circuit system serving a number of schools.

"I know a little about TV, it's my business," said the reeve. "I'm convinced that a child can learn more in a few minutes with TV than he can in several hours with a textbook."

EIGHT MILES

But the reeve said it would take eight miles of coaxial cable worth some $33,000 just to pipe lessons into the half dozen junior high schools in the area.

"From conversations I have had with station officials, I'm pretty certain CHEK-TV would permit use of its facilities to broadcast lessons in the morning... at a very good rate," Reeve Murdoch said.

COMPROMISE

Mr. Gough said of the proposal for public circuit broadcasts to schools, "I frankly don't like it as much as a closed circuit, but we may have to compromise."

And he added if councils would leave the $19,550 in the budget TV lessons could start in all schools this year.

TO WORLD?

It was then that Mr. Gough questioned "the desirability of our staff teaching to the world."

"You and I don't have to do our job before the eyes of the world. You may say it's the teachers' job. I don't agree with you. I think you will find the majority of teachers are reticent in this matter."

ACCEPT CHALLENGE

"I'm sticking my neck out," said Trustee R. H. Reeve. "I have confidence in our teachers. I believe that many of them will accept this challenge."

Mr. Murdoch felt open-circuit televised lessons would have "parent appeal" and would provide instruction in the homes for ill pupils.

SHOULD GO

Ald. Austin Curtis said the program of televised lessons "would be a wonderful thing, but it isn't absolutely necessary," therefore, in keeping with city council policy, the item should be removed from the budget.

Mr. Gelling said the board didn't expect the provincial government to share in the cost of the pilot project. He said if the department of education sponsored Greater Victoria's program of TV lessons then other school districts in the province would demand the same treatment.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has been employed by his firm for five years. In 1958 they opened a branch office and my husband thought for sure he would get the promotion. A less experienced man got it instead.

The same thing happened again in 1959. Both men were promoted over my husband. He was younger and it was humiliating. The boss gave him two raises, but it didn't make up for the hurt feelings.

We know the reason my husband was passed over is because he is not of the same religion as the owners. The other men are. Should he stay with this job and hope for a break, or leave?—T.D.

Dear T.D.: Could it be the reason your husband was passed over was because the boss didn't think he had the ability to handle the branch office?

I am not suggesting this is the case because I'm in no position to make such a judgment. However people frequently use the religion angle as a cover-up when a coveted promotion goes to someone else.

Since you and your husband feel your religion is interfering with his progress, I suggest he look for another position. An unhappy employee is a second-rate employee and he will never be content in this situation.

Here's a Hot Potato

Dear Ann: We're in a spot. My husband said to write to you. A certain couple we are friendly with is very much interested in politics. So are we. Their political views are diametrically opposed to ours.

Whenever we get together we have a heated debate. No one gets ugly. We argue at a good level and it makes for a stimulating evening.

For Christmas this couple sent us a gift subscription to a magazine which we consider dangerous. The characters who contribute to this magazine are nationally known.

She Eats Too Much

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school student with a small allowance. I go with a girl who has a big appetite.

Friday and Saturday nights we go to a little hangout where they serve short orders but this gal of mine eats two of everything. I can't tell her to "watch her figure" because she's very skinny and trying to put on weight.

I like her a lot but she's eating herself out of my life. Please help me. This is no joke.—PAUL THE PAUPER.

Dear Pauper: Level with this human disposal unit. Tell her you can't afford her appetite. Most teens like to go to eating places to see and be seen. A sandwich and a cup of hot chocolate should do nicely.

Tips for Parents

Shock Treatment Improves Manners

By HELEN E. HEWSON

Sometimes parents find that tolerance of children's behavior can go too far.

"My husband and I are in a quandary. It all started at the breakfast table.

"My husband was a little late one morning and was still at the table when the children rushed in and their usual sprightly morning conversation got under way. 'Oh blah, we had silly old prunes yesterday,' 'I don't like that,' 'You baboon, you made me spill my milk,' 'Gimme—'

"There was jumping up and down, grabbing and generally rude behavior.

"Their father roared, 'Sit down. Eat your breakfast and BE QUIET!' Our nine-year-old opened his mouth with astonishment, I think, but Daddy shouted again, 'Not a word, EAT!'

"We finished our breakfast in amazed silence: books, coats and mitts were collected and off they went without the usual last minute scramble.

"In fact the six-year-old ran back to kiss me good-bye.

"Since my husband's blowup we have insisted on civilized behavior at the table. They are not perfect but there is a definite improvement in manners, appetite and family feeling.

"Our dilemma is this: Does this improvement grow out of shock and fear or from a regard for the rights and feelings of others?

Your husband's shouts have shocked the children into paying attention, momentarily at least. You have broken the spell of your apparent indifference.

Follow through with a few firm but reasonable demands in normal tones. Children quickly learn to turn a deaf ear to habitual shouting or nagging.

Visitors Explain Moral Re-Armament

The grandson of the founder of the Montreal Star, Lord Atholstan, and the daughter of Sir Everard Mayne, representative of the British treasury in Argentina during the last war, were in Victoria for a day yesterday.

They are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hallward, who have just spent two years in Japan and the Philippines—and are now taking a leisurely trip across Canada before returning to their home in England.

Mrs. Hallward, a most attractive brunette, is also a second cousin of the late Lord Halifax, former British Ambassador to the United States, and from him, inherits her deep interest in Moral Re-Armament.

As an example of how Moral Re-Armament works, Mrs. Hallward cited a recent happening in France, when a group of German miners, with the blessing of Chancellor Adenauer, presented their play "Hoffnung" (Hope). At the end of it, they sang the French National Anthem and asked for forgiveness for the "wounds" they had caused during the war.

Mrs. Hallward said the French were very moved and the next day de Gaulle's niece, Mme. Anthoinet, took the miners to a shrine where 4,000 Frenchmen had been killed by Germans.

Again the Germans asked forgiveness for events caused by following a wrong ideology.

"We must break down the barriers of hate in the world," said Mrs. Hallward. "This is an ideology superior to Communism."

In their travels in Asia, the Hallwards found much interest in Canada and Canadian thinking. They had been to Montreal in the past, but will not have crossed the entire country until they begin their trip today.

The Hallwards did not think Communism was making as many inroads as advertised, on the other hand they said "the biggest strength in Communist propaganda is our weakness in the way we live in the free world."

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hallward yesterday, was a Victoria friend, Mrs. H. Summers Clark, McNeil Avenue.

Attorney-General Says

Voluntary Agencies Help Focus Government Opinion

Voluntary organizations and agencies play an important part in molding official decisions, Attorney-General Robert E. Böhner told delegates to the Provincial Council of Women annual meeting in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Böhner chose as his subject "The Complexity of Government."

"Basically speaking here in British Columbia the main problem has been the swift adjustment to the great surge of population," he said. This problem existed for all levels of administration, he added.

The main reason he gave for the value of the voluntary agency was the ability of such a body of public citizens to point out the needs in the community.

Public health and welfare work he cited in particular. In both these rapidly growing responsibilities the government agents' knowledge had been supplemented and rounded out by the voluntary groups.

When you consider the membership in the voluntary groups and the interest taken by the individual members it could be easily imagined that it would not be possible for a government agent to include the cost of this in any estimate, he said. Nor that it could best present the public point of view to the administrator.

Annual Meeting

Three New Councils Formed in Province

Extension work played an important part in council activities during the year. Mrs. R. T. Gilmore, president of the Provincial Council of Women, stated in her report at the annual meeting held yesterday in the Empress Hotel.

Three new councils were formed at Abbotsford, Burnaby and Courtenay.

The council in Vernon, first organized by Lady Aberdeen in 1895, was reformed this year, bringing the total to 14 councils in the province.

Three affiliated organizations, Canadian Mental Health Association, Native Indian Service Council and the Victorian Order of Nurses, were also added during the year.

Professor Only Man At Tea

Dr. T. Wyller, a NATO professor from Norway currently on the faculty of the University of British Columbia is in Victoria to speak at the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women now in session.

And yesterday Dr. Wyller proved himself a very brave man. He was the only man at the tea Mrs. Frank MacKenzie Ross gave for the Council Women at Government House.

There were about 80 women and Dr. Wyller was not in the least disconcerted. At least he didn't appear that way. He did stay quite close to his charming wife as if he might have needed a little support or protection.

Dr. Tom Dooley Races Death

Time to Help Laos Fast Running Out

By PETER WORTHINGTON

MUONG SING, Laos (TNS)—Tom Dooley's head is high and he's come home—home to Laos before he dies.

Cancer is eating through 32-year-old Dr. Dooley from St. Louis. But before he dies Dr. Tom hopes to start another hospital in Laos and help the back country people the only way he knows—a mixture of medical and human knowledge, blended with compassion and common sense. Dr. Dooley is co-founder of MEDICO—Medical International Co-Operation Organization—composed of doctors who visit under-developed countries and start medical centres that can eventually carry on without their presence.

It began in 1958 and will soon be expanded to 14 countries, with a waiting list of nearly 2,000 applicants to man the projects.

Dr. Dooley considers himself a citizen of Laos.

His hospital at Muong Sing is five miles from the China-Burma border—on the fringe of last fall's "intangible war."

'Germ Warfare'

"Members of my staff had their heads cut off. I've treated people wounded, tortured and maimed by Communists. I've heard radio Peking and Hanoi warn my people that I was an American imperialist—a monster using germ warfare disguised as medical aid," he said vehemently. "Don't ask me if it was a phony war. It wasn't, it isn't, and it's not over yet." Early last fall Dr. Dooley learned that he will probably die of cancer this year. He was ordered to United States for an operation and a rest. While in the U.S. he received an award for "outstanding contributions to medically deprived people of the Far East." He also made 72 speeches in 68 cities in 71 days and raised nearly $1,000,000 for MEDICO.

Proceeds from his recent book, "The Night They Burned the Mountains" (to be made into a William Holden movie) are also going to MEDICO.

Dr. Dooley is not blind to what has happened around him here.

"Communists want Laos," he said, "and they mean to get it any way they can—by force, subversion, politics or terror."

Spits Rebuttals

The intense and eloquent young doctor's blue eyes harden and he fairly spits rebuttals to claims that the Lao-tians are naturally lethargic, easy-going, perpetually smiling, couldn't-care-less people. "I've seen such hunger, such disease, such human misery in Laos that I get physically sick when I hear people say these things," he said. "Disease, dysentery, malnutrition and personal worries may make a man appear lethargic. But because he has the courage to smile, or doesn't understand about Communism or the UN, he's called happy-go-lucky."

Dr. Dooley is back home at his 30-bed hospital (no beds). Before he returns to United States in May for another operation on his right arm he hopes to get another hospital started.

He knows he may never return from his next trip to the U.S.

In his isolated hospital in the mountain jungles of the north, Dr. Tom arrived "home" on Christmas Day. Thousands of villagers gathered to greet him.

The welcome was the greatest Christmas present Dr. Tom Dooley ever received. It may also have been his last.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Canadian actor Douglas Campbell was admitted to the United States yesterday by immigration authorities in Buffalo after he was twice stopped from boarding a New York-bound plane in Toronto. Campbell was scheduled to

Alert Boy Prevents Big Fire

An alert Colonist carrier boy enabled Sidney volunteer firemen to confine to one suite what could have been a costly blaze early Tuesday.

Carrier Keith Collins saw smoke coming from a window above Mitchell & Anderson Lumber Co. Ltd., at Beacon and Second at 6:30 a.m., and sounded the alarm.

HELD WITHIN
Firemen found the blaze in an apartment belonging to Mrs. M. E. Yerburch, above the lumber company, and were able to hold it within those premises.

Fire Chief G. A. Gardner said the fire, attributed to careless smokers, had been smouldering for a long time, perhaps a few days, in a chesterfield. The apartment was not occupied at the time. Damage was estimated at between $1,500 and $1,700 to the apartment and contents, but was very light to the lumber firm below.

Husband Told Of Poison Just in Time

MONTREAL (CP)—A plumber whose lunch had been poisoned with phosphorus by his wife was warned at work yesterday minutes before he was to eat the sandwiches.

Police began the frantic search after a doctor reported a woman told her she had poisoned her husband's lunch. The woman, who was not identified, was placed in an institution.

Defence Plans Disclosed

MONTREAL (UPI)—Defence Minister Pearekes said Wednesday the army will have enough fallout and rescue equipment by the end of the year to handle its new civil defence role.

He said officers were ready at key NORAD bases and across the country to warn of any enemy attack and added the government plans to expand the siren warning system in the provinces.

A system to locate nuclear blasts, assess their effects and warn of fallout, presents a problem of considerable magnitude, he said. Co-operation of federal, provincial and municipal agencies, as well as civilians, would be required for an effective system.

But No Change

Cleric's Wife Millionaire

REDMOND, Wash. (AP)—The wife of a young Methodist minister in this little western Washington town stands to inherit $1,000,000.

But it will make no difference to the couple's way of life, Rev. Peter Meisner, pastor of Redmond Methodist Church, said Wednesday.

"We intend to live as we always have and to give the same kind of service," Mr. Meisner said. "We have always lived on our salary and intend to continue doing so."

He didn't say what he and his wife will do with the money, but said: "We hope to use it responsibly."

Mrs. Meisner's father, Clarence Rausch, an Akron, Ohio, certified public accountant, died Oct. 25 at 68 without leaving a will. Papers filed in probate court Tuesday valued his estate at $1,098,000. Mrs. Meisner is the sole surviving member of the immediate family.

The Meisners are both 29.

Can't Call School Debt Ours Unless Assets, Too—Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin yesterday denied opposition charges that the government's share of school debt should be counted as net debt of the province.

"The opposition says we should transfer from the school boards half of their assets and set them up in government ledgers," Mr. Martin exclaimed. "Try to deduct one cent from the school boards and see what happens!"

"They say 50 per cent should be capitalized and listed as the net debt of the province. That just can't be done. These grants are agreements and can go up year by year or be adjusted," he said.

(The government guarantees school construction borrowings and in addition makes grants of about half the cost of school construction. It is the government's share, about $47,000,000, that the opposition claims is direct provincial debt.)

Mr. Martin said he was "shocked, just shocked" at the suggestion from Opposition Leader Strachan that the CCF would abolish the home-owner grant and cut down the municipal mill rates.

Mr. Strachan interjected the CCF would use it for relief of school taxation.

MEANS CONTROL

Mr. Martin suggested the CCF proposal would mean control of school boards and other municipal bodies, which was hotly denied by Mr. Strachan.

"It means complete socialistic starvation and I, for one, won't stand for it!" Mr. Martin shouted, his arms flailing.

"It is bad enough to take away this assistance—thousands of homeowners will have only $1 a year to pay

HON. ERIC MARTIN

"... see what happens" on their taxes," Mr. Martin said.

IT MEANS...

"I think the people of the province should be grimly warned what socialism means. It means the centralization of power in the hands of a few... Taking over of the human race by power-mad

"You must have been having nightmares," interjected Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan).

Mr. Martin denied Mr. Strachan's charge that the Socreds have been starving social services to provide funds for debt redemption and to build vote-catching gimmicks.

"We don't know how to read public accounts," he told Mr. Strachan. "An under-expenditure as shown in public accounts does not necessarily mean an under-expenditure."

BIGGEST ITEM

"We are spending more on social services than anything else... and that is what we propose to do," he said.

He said health, welfare and education services had gone up 466 per cent since the Socreds came to power, and highway expenditures by 456 per cent, but revenue by 151 per cent.

"We snatched this province from the jaws of socialistic debt," Mr. Martin claimed. "If a social debt government—and I mean you (looking at the CCF opposition)—had got in office in 1952, we would be paying $30,000,000 a year in debt charges, instead of nothing," Mr. Martin jibed.

"What do the coupon-clippers get now?" shouted Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby) referring to the government's $543,220,604 in contingent liabilities.

'Husband' Faces Suit —After 29 Years

VANCOUVER (CP)—Irma Kiss, 55, is suing John Pustay, 65, for breach of promise to marry her in 1928. The woman said in Supreme Court testimony Wednesday that Pustay agreed to marry her while they were still in their native Hungary. She said she arrived in Canada in 1929, his wife because he had a wife living in Hungary. She is asking the court to declare her alleged marriage valid or to award damages for her deceiving her. Pustay claims he only agreed to employ her as a housekeeper.

Superannuation $1,000,000 Item In Its First Year

A superannuation program for B.C. hospital employees is expected to cost the government $1,000,000 in its first year of operation, Health Minister Eric Martin told the legislature yesterday.

He said the next thing the government will consider for hospital employees is a medical care program.

'RIDICULOUS'

In response to opposition jibes about need for unemployment insurance coverage for hospital workers, Mr. Martin said "unemployment insurance among hospital employees is ridiculous." He said his stand was backed by the Canadian Hospital Association.

Full details of the superannuation program are not yet worked out, but this much is intended:

• The program covers all permanent employees and will provide uniform standard of benefits.

• Participation will be voluntary.

• Each hospital will decide if it wishes to participate and the government believes most, if not all, will want to be charter members of the program.

• A hospital employee will be able to transfer to any other hospital and have his superannuation benefits carry along with him.

The program will be developed under the Municipal Superannuation Act.

COST TO RISE

It is expected hospital employee superannuation will soon cost substantially more than $1,000,000 a year, because of the constantly increasing number of hospital personnel. Money for the program will come from the $8,750,000 in the estimates for payments to hospitals.

HELD IN JAIL

Frank Richter (SC, Similkameen) told the legislature yesterday that too many young people were being held in jails while awaiting trial.

He said the mixing of young people with possibly hardened criminals was not conducive to rehabilitation.

VACATION BILL

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) introduced a bill yesterday calling for a three-week vacation with pay following five years' service with any firm.

NOT FOR PROFIT

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) told the House ambulances should not be operated for profit by private companies.

He said they should be part of hospital and health services.

Fire Wrecks $75,000 Tug

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $75,000 tugboat was destroyed by a fire and explosion Wednesday off Point Atkinson, at the mouth of Howe Sound.

The three crew members of the 50-foot Torpedo fled without injury in a lifeboat and were picked up later by another tug, the La Mite.

Mammoth Radar Planned for U.K.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A super-power radar station able to spot Soviet missiles thousands of miles away will be set up in England for U.S.-British defence, the state department announced Wednesday.

The huge metal screen—bigger than a football field set on its side—is to be built at a $120,000,000 cost at Fylingdales Moor, Yorkshire. This is midway up the east coast of Britain, between London and Edinburgh.

Defence experts said this giant installation, plus two others now under construction in North America, will be able to provide speedy detection over a large area of the northern hemisphere of any missile headed that way.

The reported range of the high-power radar is about 3,500 miles. The electric eye can thus peer across the Arctic to spot missiles launched from Russia.

The two other stations in the chain now are being built at Thule, Greenland, and Clear, Alaska, for completion expected late this year or in 1961.

LONDON, (CP) — George Brown, Labor defence spokesman, told the House of Commons Wednesday that the planned ballistic missile early-warning station to be built in England would give Britain only a few minutes' maximum warning, or only enough time to say "Cheerio, chaps."

West Germany Finds: Anti-Jewish Action 'Not a Conspiracy'

BONN (UPI) — The West German government said Wednesday that although 885 anti-Semitic incidents were reported here between Christmas and the end of January, no organized Nazi conspiracy could be detected.

The investigation, a government white paper issued on the eve of a parliamentary debate on the subject declared, provided no evidence that significant sections of the people of the federal republic entertain anti-Semitic feelings.

In some cases, particularly in West Berlin, the report said, Communist party functionaries performed anti-Semitic actions in order to discredit West German authorities.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I don't doubt but that a lot of my readers will be investing heavily this spring in the roots of perennial plants. This is a good thing, for with all their color and charm, the bedding-out annuals cannot take the place of the long-lived permanent plants which come up each spring of their own accord.

I think it pays to be a bit fussy in choosing your plants, for these are no fly-by-night annuals, whose life span extends over a single summer. The occupants of your perennial border will be your garden companions for a long, long time, and will be "mother-clumps" to provide cuttings and root divisions for the extension of your garden; the best you can buy is none too good for this responsibility.

No perennial border can be considered complete without a few delphiniums, even though these plants are terribly prone to aphid attack and mildew and require considerable care in staking. The Pacific Hybrids, developed by Vetterli and Reinelt of California, are about as good as anything you can find, although if your nurseryman should have in stock an English variety called Glamour Girl, grab it quickly. This navy blue and white delphinium has the biggest florets I have ever seen, and makes a glorious six-foot spike.

Peonies are a must, and while spring isn't the best time of the year to buy and plant the roots—September is better—about the only time you ever see the roots offered for sale is during the spring months while the garden fever is running its highest temperature. I think if I had to select three peonies, my choice would be Le Cygne, with floriferous milk-white flowers; Therese in a lovely soft pink, and Karl Rosenfeld, making very large, globular, dark red flowers.

The peach-leaved Bellflower, Campanula persicifolia, is another perennial I wouldn't want to do without. Standing around three feet in height, it blooms from the end of May almost until Labor Day. Some good kinds are Pride of Exmouth in lavender blue, Gardenia in pure white, and Telham Beauty in a particularly attractive sky blue shade.

The Oriental Poppy, like the peony, doesn't remain in bloom very long, covering no more than four weeks in midsummer, but they provide a richer splash of color than almost any other garden plant. My favorites are Fireball in orange scarlet, Enchantress in a lovely satiny rose pink, and Perry's White in pure white.

Perennial phlox plants are rather like the little girl in the nursery rhyme—when they are good, they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are horrid. Maybe not exactly horrid, but bargain-counter phlox roots are likely to produce flowers in a muddy, washed-out mauve shade, nothing at all like the glorious glowing colors of the best-named varieties.

When you shop for phlox plants, look for Sir Malcolm Campbell in brilliant carmine red; Elizabeth Campbell in delicate pink; Brigadier in orange red; Miss Lingard in white and Spillfire in salmon orange.

I have sung the praises of Lythrum many times in this column, for this plant is the most trouble-free perennial in our garden. Just and slugs never come near it, blights and mildew never bother it, the thing needs no staking, and if you forget to water it, Lythrum keeps right on blooming without turning a hair.

Standing about three feet tall, Lythrum makes quite a bushy plant, sending up masses of slender spikes covered with thousands of tiny florets. I have three kinds in my garden—Morden Pink, Morden Gleam, and Dropmore Purple.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Fascinating but Disturbing

The detailed and frightfully accurate re-enactment of famous crimes is a fairly new and fertile field of dramatic exploration. Crime, heaven knows, is old stuff. But real criminals painstakingly treated as historical characters are brand new and rather disturbing protagonists—I hesitate to call them heroes—all over the movie marquee and, increasingly, television screens.

The movie mob is way ahead of TV in this regard with such movies as "Al Capone," "The Purple Gang," "The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond," "Jack the Ripper"—all of which are doing rather alarmingly well at the box office, especially with the teenage crowd. On television we had Playhouse 90's "Seven Against the Wall" about the St. Valentine's day massacre and most recently "John Dillinger—A Year to Kill" which CBS put on as a special the other night.

I must say I found the Dillinger story, which was produced by John Houseman and directed by Mel Ferrer, absolutely fascinating. It morally a little disturbing. It started at the end, really, with the FBI clustering like grapes around the Biograph Theatre where they were later to mow down Dillinger, and then flashed back to his bloody year of bank robbery.

The education of Dillinger in prison under Harry Pierpont, the marvellously planned and executed robbery of banks, the meticulous casing of the banks, the rather casual killing of cops and a sheriff, all held one spellbound, dramatically speaking. But also it bothered me a little. A good short course in bank robbery, I kept thinking, though I suppose it could also be called a good short course in the prevention of bank robbery, too.

But you can't escape the feeling that this is the glorification of gangsterism, even though this is a very honest documentary. The bad guys get it in the end—but for an hour they have led a pretty glorious and adventurous life. With all the movies around, I can't help feeling that hero worship of hoodlums is being used to turn a pretty profit for some not very scrupulous film makers and I hate to see TV get mixed up in this sort of thing.

Another weekend special, which I found delightful, was "The Devil and Daniel Webster" with Edward G. Robinson and David Wayne.

This was Stephen Vincent Benet's dramatization of an old New Hampshire legend about how Daniel Webster won a farmer's soul from the Devil in a notional court of law. The farmer had sold his soul to the Devil in a moment of helplessness, and perhaps justifiable, exasperation with the Lord.

Wayne was a very gracious, charming, thoroughly Yankee Devil, whose glee at leading a mortal astray was a delight to behold. Robinson was the very image of the great New England spellbinder, who undertakes at the risk of his own soul a legal defence against hopeless odds.

The play abounds in delicious irony and fine flourishes of speech, which alone made the drama worth watching. It's not often we hear the language spoken with any style and gusto and proper appreciation on television. It was fresh, different and grown-up drama.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Now that the flood of campaign oratory is practically upon the U.S. we are about to hear millions of words on American economic policy. A good many of these words will deal with poverty-stricken public services vs. the billions of dollars spent on consumer goods for private use. It's an idea that comes up over and over again in books, articles and speeches on public affairs.

The source of this latest intellectual cliché is a book published almost two years ago, "The Affluent Society" by Harvard economist J. K. Galbraith. It's probably the most influential book written in the past two years.

The spread of Dr. Galbraith's ideas made me curious and I went back to his book to re-

Social Balance

So, he says, we must "re-dress the social balance." And where is the money coming from for all those new schools and hospitals and highways? From taxes, of course. Let's raise income taxes and, on the state and local level, let's slap on a sales tax.

The liberals aren't going to like this program. Dr. Galbraith admits. But they'll have to overcome their scruples and go along, because the U.S. is now so rich that it can afford

The 'New Class'

So, in this "affluent society" the liberals will have to learn a new vocabulary and bend all their efforts on public services to be paid for out of higher income and sales taxes.

This will produce, by Dr. Galbraith's logic, more and more members of what he calls "The New Class"—that is, people who enjoy their work and are freed from irksome toil.

He refers to "the advertising man, tycoon, poet, or professor" as representative mem-

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — France Nuyen, as of going to press, is again No. 1 with Marlon Brando. She has been sitting in while he continues to cut his lengthy western epic, "One-Eyed Jacks."

Barbara Luna, favorite of Brando while France was in Hong Kong, is now in second place.

Hedy Lamarr's picture, "An Apple for Venus," filmed in Europe about eight years ago, could be one of the most expensive one-shots on TV. I hear that Hedy is asking $1,000,000 for her property. It doesn't hurt to ask.

Ernie Kovacs' cigar sponsor gave him a solid gold ring, in the shape of a cigar band.

Beverly Aadland has switched to Jack Doolan, a skindiver, nearer her age than the late lamented Errol Flynn.

Laurence Harvey smiling because of the news he was voted the best actor of last year by the variety clubs of Great Britain.

A phony from Venezuela tried to reach Tony Perkins on the spurious idea of presenting him with what proved to be a non-existent award.

Diana Dors is having problems with the family of her late husband, Dennis Hamilton. They object to her story of her life which delves into her marriage with Dennis.

With singer Joni James back from Europe, she is rushing her plan, with husband Tony, to become home owners in Beverly Hills and apartment-dwellers in New York. Joni may also need a home in Europe. She recently recorded five albums in London, sang in Milan at the San Remo Festival, then went to Germany to sing for the armed forces.

That's quite a bath Trevor Howard takes in an old tin tub for a scene in the film version of the D. H. Lawrence story, "Sons and Lovers." The only thing he has on is a pipe. I think the scene will be snipped.

Richard Burton says he should have been twins — then I might be able to accept all the films they offer me. Warners have sent me two, "Splendor in the Grass" and "Fever in the Blood." But the only thing I'm interested in now is the stage — "Camelot" with Julie Andrews. We begin rehearsals in late August.

Marilyn Monroe was first choice to play Helen of Troy in last week's wonderful Play of the Week — "Tiger at the Gates." Patricia Cutts was fine, but Marilyn would have been better. She declined the part on the advice of husband Arthur Miller, who wasn't sure she could sustain the role all the way through the two hours.

Robert Mitchum, getting around England with wife Dorothy while waiting to start "The Grass Is Greener" with Deborah Kerr and Cary Grant, has been buying horses and shipping them back to his farm in Maryland. It was about 10 years ago he said he wanted to retire.

Progress, Poverty Open '60s For Britain's Restless Brood

Turmoil, Despair Mix With Times of Plenty

(First of a Series)

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A spirit of restless longing is abroad in the lands of the British Commonwealth of Nations as they embark on a new decade.

As the 1960s begin to unfold, each area reacts differently to the spirit.

Much of Africa surges with nationalistic feelings. The Southern Hemisphere is confident in continuing prosperity.

In Asian lands there is a tone of despair, and through the West Indies island jockeys against island for position.

In the United Kingdom, the heartland of the Commonwealth, there is chafing under heavy taxation and other problems which arise in times of plenty.

Australia moves into 1960 on the crest of a significant trend, to move away from a one-crop economy. Australians less and less are living by wool.

Cultural Revolution

Culturally, a revolution has occurred with the influx of non-British immigrants. Italian coffee is served in a sidewalk cafe where once stood an English tearoom.

New Zealand, too, is prosperous with only 941 unemployed in a population of 2,296,434. In the scramble for manpower, the janitor commands nearly as much as the university lecturer.

India moves into the 1960s through a year of border strife with China. She faces a build-up to increase economic and military strength but she

Hard, Firm Example

In Ghana, Prime Minister Nkrumah leads the surge toward national identity which is sweeping Africa. His people can show a record of hard work under firm rule as an example.

A crucial test faces the federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland in October. The constitution will be reviewed to see if the country can progress slowly to independence. With foreign investment coming in, color bars vanishing and a sound economy, few expect the federation to fail.

South Africa, however, still seethes under the tangle of social and political pressure, a land of 3,000,000 whites and 11,000,000 non-whites. Still the economy remains strong.

The problems of a bustling, prosperous Britain are becoming the problems of a country with a skyrocketing standard of living—too many TV sets, too many cars.

The question mark of the Commonwealth is the West Indies federation. The 10 federated islands enter the 1960s with a struggle for position, Jamaica, with half the federation's 3,000,000 population, wants to keep full control over growing economic affairs.

Trinidad, 1,000 miles away at the other end of the Caribbean, believes the federal government should be more closely knit.

Problems of the islands—where progress and prosperity contrast with black poverty—come to a head next month in a constitutional conference.

Jurors Won Over?

Finch Lawyer Star of Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The most fascinating character in the Finch-Tregoff murder trial is not the doctor or his mistress, but the lawyer for Dr. Bernard Finch—Grant Cooper.

Cooper appears to have won the jurors completely. They may not acquit the surgeon, but they will think a long time about handing a setback to likeable, gentlemanly Grant Cooper.

FATHER'S DAY

On Tuesday, he was trying to establish the date of a boating trip. The witness said it was Father's Day. Cooper appealed to the courtroom: "Does anyone know when Father's Day is?" Two jurors quickly replied it was June 21.

Seldom has a defendant gone on trial against such odds. Finch had cheated on his wife and held the gun that killed her—and admitted it.

But Cooper has fitted these facts into a story portraying the surgeon as an innocent man. And observers believe he has partly persuaded at least a few of the jurors.

The trial resumes today and the fireworks really are over now except for closing argu-

Gilded U.S. Eagle Going to London 'Vulgar' or Not

LONDON (UPI)—The American eagle is coming to roost atop the U.S. Embassy here this summer whether Britons like it or not. Many of them don't. They find it in bad taste—even a bit vulgar.

The embassy yesterday spiked rumors that the controversial bird, a gold-tinted giant cast in aluminum, would be politely melted away in deference to British artistic sensitivities.

"This matter has been directed from Washington as part of the world-wide embassy building program," he declared. He added somewhat wistfully that "our feelings have nothing to do with it."

British critics—and they are many and varied—believe that the least it will do is give an undignified appearance to the embassy. At the most, they say, it will make passersby frightened or self-conscious.

Wife's Plea Wins Respite for Thief

A wife's plea, endorsed by City Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady, won respite in city police court yesterday for a man who had just pleaded guilty to his sixth offence involving automobiles.

William Wesley Walters, 252 Oscar, had admitted taking a car without consent of the owner. His record showed five earlier convictions on the mainland for car theft, and that he had just recently been released from the penitentiary.

CIVILIAN ARREST
Court was told that Bernard Mobey, 1119 North Park, had reported his car stolen Tuesday night. Later, Mobey and his stepson, John Hall, came to police headquarters and turned Walters over to officers.

They said Hall had followed Mobey's car into a dead-end at $50 by Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

the end of North Park, and there had taken accused into custody. Walters had been drinking.

COMPULSIVE URGE
Mr. O'Grady told Magistrate William Oetler that Walters' wife had requested a probation report, saying she was sure she could help him with his major problem—drinking.

"He seems almost to have a compulsive urge to steal cars when he had been drinking," Mr. Grady said.

Walters was remanded to Tuesday to allow preparation of a probation report.

In Colwood police court yesterday Alexander Nelson Smart, 3208 Wetherby, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor, and was fined

Heated Letters Revive Issue As Gallery Opens

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker last night officially opened Canada's new national art gallery and hailed it as "a major step forward" in the arts in this country.

He opened the Lorne Building, new home of the National Gallery of Canada, before one of the largest and most distinguished gatherings in the capital in recent years.

The opening ceremonies were held in a special gallery of the building which contains an inaugural exhibition of priceless old masters and sculptures lent by 22 museums in Europe and North America. Mr. Diefenbaker said the generosity was evidence that "art knows no boundaries."

In the Commons yesterday, letters were tabled in which F. Cleveland Morgan, a former member of the National Gallery's board of trustees, claimed the government dismissed Alan Jarvis as director of the gallery last September.

RESIGNATION

Mr. Morgan, a Montreal department store executive, said he resigned because the government had shown "studied discourtesy" toward the trustees.

The charges were contained in Morgan's letter of resignation Oct. 2 to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The letter was tabled along with the letter of resignation of C. P. Fell, former chairman of the board, and replies.

Mr. Morgan said the trustees had understood the government's decision in 1958 to cancel a $445,000 order for two old masters.

After that, he said, "we looked for better times... on the contrary, they have become worse."

"The trustees... have never been consulted on any subject, let alone the dismissal, thinly veiled as a resignation, of the director, Mr. Alan Jarvis."

White Tie Barrier Falls at Ceremony

OTTAWA (UPI) — The "white tie curtain" apparently crumbled last night at the opening of the National Gallery. The distinguished gathering did not entirely conform with the "white tie and medals" instruction on the official invitation. There were plenty of black ties, and still more dark business suits.

One outstanding exception, however, was Russian Ambassador Amassap Arutunian who was the picture of elegance.

RCMP Not Touchy About Speed Traps

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP corporal said Tuesday police don't mind people giving warnings of speed traps as long as they don't clutter up boulevards with signs.

He was commenting on the latest warning methods of UBC students. Those who have passed through a trap flick their car lights at students approaching the trap.

"We don't care if students stand at the gate and warn every driver of the radar trap," said the corporal, "as long as it slows down traffic."

Last week a student was fined in magistrate's court for posting a sign warning drivers of a radar trap on University Boulevard.

"The reason for the charge," said the RCMP spokesman, "is that we object to the dozens of signs that appear on the grass, on lamp standards and on trees wherever a radar trap is set up."

'Mom' Blames Catholics

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte says her highly publicized home at Bowmanville, Ont., was closed because of Roman Catholic influence in the Ontario welfare department.

Mrs. Whyte told a public meeting here Tuesday night that 1,300 children and some parents were given emergency accommodation at Whytehaven during the 10 years before it was closed last fall by Ontario health authorities.

Comparing herself and her workers to the Apostles, she said Christ's disciples were persecuted too.

"They would have done more to us, too, if they had dared," she said.

The meeting was called to acquaint residents of this Okanagan Valley community with Mrs. Whyte's plans for development of Mountain View Home, a home for elderly persons here. She has also announced plans for an establishment near Nelson, B.C., and possibly a dude ranch in the Cariboo area.

Mrs. Whyte said Mountain View Home will be a new Whytehaven mission. She quoted J. A. Sadler, B.C. director of welfare, and A. A. Shipp, chief inspector, as saying there is "no reason why we can't get a licence."

Famed Roxy Comes Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Roxy Theatre, which opened its doors in 1927 as the largest theatre in the world, is being torn down to make way for a hotel addition.

The extravagant movie palace with its spectacular stage shows has entertained millions of New York city visitors in its 33 year history. Its sale price was $5,000,000.

With the passing of the Roxy, the Radio City Music Hall will be the only movie theatre in the Broadway area with a stage show.

Town Protests Slayer's Grave

PARRY SOUND, Ont. — Mayor Agnes Wing says town council has objected to the burial of a convicted murderer in the town's jailyard on Main Street and will send a protest letter to Justice Minister Fulton.

On Feb. 9, Marvin McKee, 20, of nearby Huntsville, was hanged for the murder of a taxi driver. He had asked to be buried in the jailyard.

"I do not think that he should be buried on our main street," Mayor Wing said. "He is not from our community and we are being penalized."

DURHAM, Ont. — As 10-year-old Dennis Mountain continued to insist "God will heal me, Mommy," parents Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mountain continued in refusal to allow doctors to amputate the boy's leg. Dennis is dying of bone cancer.

NEW YORK — International financier Alexander Guterma was sentenced to four years, 11 months in prison and fined $160,000 on conspiracy charges.

LONDON — Lord Valentine Thynne, 22, was ordered by police to leave his apartment because of a "rather extensible" party which began Valentine's Day Eve and lasted for 36 hours.

LONDON, Ont. — Former world figure-skating champ Barbara Ann Scott, now Mrs. Tommy King of Chicago, branded as "ridiculous" a report that she has broken up with her husband and is going to Hollywood.

BERLIN — Sepp Dietrich, 67, onetime general of Hitler's SS elite guard troops, was fined $1,800 by a West Berlin denazification court.

KEYMER, England — Cartoonist Norman Pett, who originated the British comic strip Janie, has died.

VANCOUVER — B.C. Court of Appeal dismissed an appeal of Clifford John Dolan, 27, from a 15-year sentence imposed by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson for manslaughter. Dolan was acquitted of the murder of Mary Ann Regina Kelly near Chilliwack last year.

'Wrong End' Start Symphony Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Sir Bernard Heinze, eminent Australian conductor who has been asked to diagnose the ills of Canada's symphony orchestras, said Wednesday Canadians have started "at the wrong end" in setting them up.

Create the interest, and then found the orchestras. That was his prescription, outlined at a press conference held here quarterway through his three-month survey for the Canada Council.

MUST PAY

As for financial problems of orchestras—their principal ailment—he said that if Canadians want them they must be prepared to pay for them.

The present practice of depending largely on patrons to meet deficits was too uncertain a prop.

Symphony orchestras were primarily civic projects and civic responsibilities. Civic, provincial and federal governments must support them financially, but most important they must have a substantial body of private subscribers.

Sir Bernard has toured eastern Canada and, after conducting the Ottawa Philharmonic tonight moves on to the west. He is to advise the Canada Council on the best means of providing orchestras with financial help.

He said he was surprised at the growth of orchestras in Canada. When he visited Canada in 1947 there were three, in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver. On this tour he is to conduct 17.

Parking Plan Forums Held

Members of the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce are learning in sections the details of the city's revised off-street parking and downtown improvement plan.

Up to 25 at a time, they are going to city hall to hear the plan explained by assistant city engineer Roderick Clark. "We'll keep it up, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, until we run out of an audience," Mr. Clark said yesterday.

Free Music Set At Library

A free music program will be presented in the Public Library music room tonight at 7:30.

Program will include recordings of Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1 in A-Major," Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 4 in D-Major with Zino Francescatti as soloist, and Wagner's Prelude to Act I of "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg."

AERIAL HISTORY

The world's first jet passenger plane service was inaugurated between London and South Africa in May, 1952.

Supersonic 'Liner' Requires Billions

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jack Dymont, chief engineer of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said Wednesday cost of producing a supersonic civil transport plane that would be "safe and sound" could be between $600,000,000 and $2,000,000,000.

The supersonic plane would not become a reality, he said, until governments were prepared to back their aircraft industries financially.

Husband Upsets Plan Of Lonely Navy Wife

HALIFAX (CP)—The wife of a young sailor was placed on a six months peace bond here because she was lonesome for her husband.

The 21-year-old woman was charged with causing an investigation by reporting an offence which had not been committed, namely writing threatening letters to herself. She told Magistrate Nathan Green she got the idea from a friend who had used it successfully to get the navy to send her husband back to shore.

It worked for her, too, "but no one counted on my husband going to the RCMP," she said.

Army Can't Do Everything

'All Survivors' Have Role

The army's rescue role is based on belief that a large number of people would survive nuclear blast in the event of attack on Canadian cities.

Maj-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, army survival chief, said in an interview here the plan calls for fallout shelters in every city, an informed public and an organized and disciplined rescue force.

The general stressed that the army has not taken over civil defence. He said CD duties at the federal level are shared by several ministers with the department of national defence responsible for overall survival operations.

"It has been estimated that something in the order of 350,000 to 500,000 could be needed for rescue operations alone," he said.

To this number must be added "tens of hundreds of thousands" that would be needed for firefighting, transportation, medical care, welfare and many other tasks.

Manpower needed would be far beyond the resources of the armed services and militia, the general said. So the provinces have been given the job of providing and training these people.

"If we do have a nuclear attack—I don't say there will be one—our task will be so tremendous that everybody will be in it. If an attack comes, there may be millions dead, but many, many more in our cities can be rescued if we are prepared as a nation."

Hot Plate Burns

Man Found In Flames

An elderly Victoria man whose clothing caught fire from a hotplate was fighting for life in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night, suffering from severe burns to the upper body.

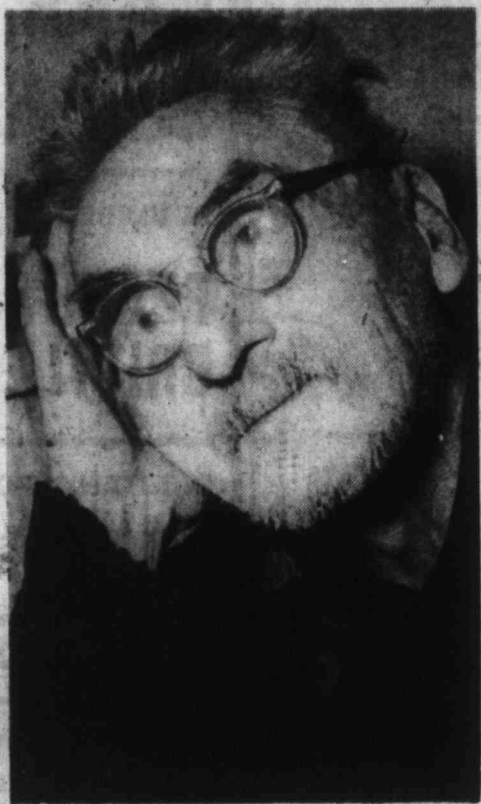

Richard O'Connell, about 70, his clothing burned away to the waist, was dragged from his room at the Lincoln Hotel by another guest at the hotel who did not wish to be identified. The elderly man had apparently fallen over against the hot plate.

SAW SMOKE

"I was sitting in my room when the lights went out, and I went out to the hall to see what happened," his rescuer said. "I saw smoke coming out from under one of the doors, so I went downstairs to get the landlord to open the door, and called the fire department."

"When I got in I found him lying on the floor in the middle of the flames. I dragged him out and the fire department came."

There was no damage to the room except for a hole in the linoleum where the hot plate had rested.

Thomas S. Francis

Faces New Start at 81

Pioneer Loses Home to Flames

A Saanich pioneer, whose life-long home and belongings were wiped out by fire yesterday, faces the prospect today of having to start all over again at the age of 81.

Thomas S. Francis has few financial resources and all his clothes were burned except what he had on when he returned from his mail box to see his six-room frame dwelling going up in smoke.

Even his four cats were lost.

The elderly man said sadly, "unless they took to the woods along with the chickens."

Mr. Francis has no close relatives in the area as far as could be determined last night.

He is temporarily staying at a nursing home operated by Mrs. Geddes Bissett, 402 Brookleigh.

The fire was reported at 11:48 a.m. by a passing motorist and reported to Saanich fire department.

Mr. Francis was then at least a quarter-mile away at his mail box.

"I was only away from the house for about half an hour," he said. "When I came back the whole business was on fire."

The only money he had was carried with him on his mail call. His only income is a meagre pension.

Brothers of Mr. Francis built the historic house in 1890 after the family moved from a log cabin on the same property in which he was born.

Baby 'Overdue' Crowd Lingers

LONDON (UPI)—Crowds lingered outside the iron gates of Buckingham Palace last night in the belief that Queen Elizabeth's baby was now "overdue."

Chill evening forced many to head home early. Princess Margaret, the Queen's sister, left the palace after a visit of an hour and a half and many of the baby watchers drifted away after waving to Margaret.

Embarrassed by Insults

Nikita Blunders Irritate Indians

Silence Greets Ridicule

By ROY ESSOYAN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev committed a remarkable number of blunders during his five-day goodwill visit to India.

He started out by insulting India's parliamentary system and ended up by ridiculing the underfed nation for accepting a "dole" of American food aid.

EMBARRASSING

In between he embarrassed his Indian hosts whose friendship for the West is on the upswing by using India as platform for repeated attacks against colonialism's "imperialist exploitation."

Khrushchev also irritated Indian officialdom by thoughtless remarks. And his brash and bulky security men angered the Indian press by their progressively rough efforts to shield their boss.

PRESS IRRITATED

Indian newspaper men covering the tour were outspoken in their irritation. Some of their papers expressed this irritation in their editorial columns.

Indian officials for the most part maintained silence, but several did little to hide their annoyance.

LOOKED TIRED

None of this was in evidence at the start of the tour. Khrushchev looked so tired and acted so uncharacteristically subdued that veteran observers wondered at the cause. But his spirits picked up as the tour progressed, and he delivered his last jibes—at a banquet on the eve of his departure from Calcutta for Rangoon—bubbling with good humor.

WORST MISTAKE

One of the worst blunders Khrushchev committed was his attack on the Western parliamentary system of "bourgeois democracies" delivered in an address to the Indian parliament last Thursday, the day he arrived in New Delhi.

He said the multi-party political system—which India enjoys—was a device of the capitalist, exploiting class to dominate Western governments.

Members of the Indian Parliament sat in silence as Khrushchev's words rang through the hall.

"I think he has underestimated the intelligence of his listeners," an Indian reporter who covered the tour said.

McGee's Life Threatened Over Death Penalty Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank McGee, Toronto MP whose bill to abolish the death penalty for murder will be debated today in the Commons, received a letter Wednesday threatening to "get" him or some of his family if his bill is passed.

The letter came to the 33-year-old Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough from a Montreal address and was unsigned. However, the envelope bore a return address and a man's name.

Mr. McGee, who has a wife and three children, informed the office of Justice Minister Eulton of the threat.

The letter is the first such threat he has received since he became interested in parliamentary abolition of the death penalty for murder. He introduced bills for abolition at the last session of parliament and again this session.

Trouble Begets Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Superior Court divorce survey shows half the people involved in divorce were from broken homes themselves. Forty-three per cent of the parties knew each other less than a year prior to marriage. In 95 per cent of such cases, either the husband or wife, or both, did not attend church regularly. Three of four court reconciliations remained permanent.

'Code' Cited

Silence Hinders Police

SEATTLE (AP)—An inquest into the death of a stevedore foreman was ordered Wednesday after police reported a "code of silence" on the waterfront had stalled their investigation.

Coroner Leo M. Sowers said the inquest will be conducted Friday in the case of Otto L. Bloss, 61, who died Sunday after a fall from a ship.

Meantime, the Ship and Foremen's Association of Washington stopped work for 24 hours, starting at 8 a.m. Wednesday, for Bloss' funeral.

The action held up cargo handling of 14 ships and about 1,000 waterfront workers in Puget Sound and Grays Harbor were idle.

REPORTS PERSIST

He said there are persistent reports that a man knocked Bloss over the side of the ship after an argument over hours the longshore crew was to work.

Royal Navy Plans Anti-Sub Race

Bombs Cross Border Line

TUNIS (Reuters)—The Tunisian government charged Wednesday night that a French bomber crossed into Tunisia from Algeria and dropped several bombs near the frontier, damaging property.

LONDON (UPI)—The Royal Navy said Wednesday it is allocating $34,000,000, for major research to counter the Soviet Union's massive submarine fleet.

Lord Carrington, first lord of the admiralty, said most of the research would concentrate on counter-measures against fast enemy submarines and on launching and control equipment for submarine-guided missiles.

The research budget—$1,500,000 more than last year—reflected growing British concern over the Soviet submarine fleet.

The overall navy budget this year will be $1,113,000,000, a boost of $75,000,000 over last year.

Lord Carrington said the navy was progressing well in construction of its first nuclear-powered submarine and expected to launch it later this year. A second nuclear submarine is planned.

Dad Clubs Teacher

LADNER, B.C. (CP)—A father of eight pleaded guilty Wednesday to a charge of assaulting a woman teacher with a rubber hose.

Sigmund Sort, 37, was arrested at his farm home after police were called to investigate a report that teacher Muriel Boskill had been attacked at Miller school, where five of Sort's children are pupils.

Ike's Reply Welcomed

GENEVA (UPI)—Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said yesterday that he "conditionally welcomed" President Eisenhower's statement that the new Soviet proposal at the nuclear test ban talks here was less rigid than earlier ones.

Tsarapkin said that the President's comment on the Soviet plan for a comprehensive test ban was a "good reaction."

In yesterday's session of the talks, American delegate James J. Wadsworth warned Tsarapkin that the United States Senate would not ratify a test ban treaty unless it provided for an "enormous" number of inspections.

Sunday Laws Hit

Court Defines Pool, Billiards

VANCOUVER (CP)—A magistrate gave a short lecture on the difference between pool and snooker and billiards Wednesday when he acquitted a billiard parlor operator of being open on Sunday.

Magistrate Alexander McDonald also took a swipe at Vancouver's Sunday opening laws which permit bowling but not billiards.

He made his observations during the trial of John Nagel whom he acquitted after saying the charge was not properly drawn on the basis of evidence and that there was no evidence that money had changed hands.

Police testified that they saw pool games but no billiards being played Sunday, Dec. 6. The tables had pockets, they said.

"Billiards proper is played on a table without pockets," said the magistrate.

He said he could see no reason for drawing the line between bowling and billiards. Pool halls had advanced many stages "from when I was in school."

Defence counsel John Macey gave him a measure of support by quoting from an encyclopedia which said the game of billiards is believed to have derived from the game of bowling.

Rats Find Lipstick Worse Than Poison

WASHINGTON (AP)—Laboratory rats fed on a known poison got along better than some which were fed lipstick colors, a government expert testified Wednesday.

The food and drug administration offered evidence to back up its lipstick dye tests as it opened public hearings to defend a ban on 14 coal tar colors.

Fitzhugh said carbolic acid was fed at levels of one per cent for two years without any effect on tests rats, and in short experiments with two per cent levels there was only a slight side effect on growth.

Dodsworth Says:

Tour Lures Must Be Improved

REEVE DONALD MORTON ... no handout

Sport Study To Start On March 2

NORTH COWICHAN—Reeve Donald Morton said yesterday he will appoint a committee March 2 to study amateur sports here.

It will be composed of two councillors and possibly four private citizens "to check into the needs and how they can best be helped."

The reeve said he wished to correct the impression some groups have "that we are going to hand out money."

"We need brains rather than athletic ability for this first round," Reeve Morton said.

ALBERNI—Tourism is not only B.C.'s third largest industry, but it holds the same position among Canadian industries, Walter Dodsworth of Butchart Gardens, said when he addressed the annual meeting of Alberni Board of Trade.

He said that if the industry is to thrive, action must be taken to improve services, including food, transportation, accommodation and information facilities; to provide liaison and co-operation between communities; to encourage citizens to know their communities better in order that they may help in disseminating information to visitors.

He also recommended that public and official recognition of the value of the tourist industry should be developed along with an awareness of the competitive position held by B.C. as a year-round vacation land.

"We must study and evaluate travel trends and encourage a distinctive approach to development of our cultural attractions," the speaker said.

An important phase of tourist promotion, Mr. Dodsworth said, is action to conserve natural resources and preserve historical attractions.

Alberni Concerts

PORT ALBERNI—Alberni Valley will resume a regular series of concerts next September under auspices of the newly-formed Alberni Valley Overture Concert Association.

The Alberni Valley group becomes the 43rd Canadian city to join with the Vancouver-based overture concert organization.

Music Festival Adds Six Awards

DUNCAN—Six new awards will be offered at the 11th Cowichan Music Festival in March, bringing the total to 85. Chemainus PTA will award a shield to the school with the highest aggregate points in choral, speech, dancing or instrumental classes.

A $10 bursary has been offered by the group for the best pianist able to play "God Save the Queen" and "O Canada" from memory, and any one of six given hymns.

A Rotary Club trophy will be awarded in the Canadian poetry class and Queen Margaret's School has offered a rosebowl in open speech choirs. A second cup has been offered by B.C. Forest Products Ltd. for rhythm bands, and Bruce's Store will give a trophy to be awarded in piano classes.

Officials have received 560 entries. The festival takes place March 12 to 19.

Evacuated Families Not Split for Long

NORTH COWICHAN—Civil defence director E. C. Bolin said yesterday the families split during evacuation to here will be reunited in "a matter of days."

He made the comment during a report to council when he said as many as 156,000 persons may be evacuated through here from Victoria and the Lower Mainland.

Driver Enters Plea In Police Car Crash

DUNCAN—The driver of a car that was in collision with a police car Dec. 24 pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to yield the right of way.

Guy J. F. Dobell entered the plea yesterday and obtained a remand to Feb. 26 for trial.

The two vehicles collided at the corner of Craig and Indian Streets near the centre of town when the police car was on its way to an accident.

More than $300 damage was done to the cars, and most of it to the police car.

DUNCAN—Lyle Rodgers has been elected president of the Senior Men's Baseball Association. Others voted to the executive are William Keserich, vice-president, and Don Paton, secretary-treasurer.

SEA UNICORN

The male marshall, similar to a porpoise, has a spiral horn of pure ivory that may extend six to ten feet.

ALBERNI—Jack Jowsey was installed as president of Alberni Board of Trade at a dinner meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Jowsey, a long-time resident of the city, succeeds Jim Lambeth, bank manager, who held the office for two years.

Acting as installing officer, Magistrate W. E. MacLeod also congratulated Ted Gardner, vice-president; Dave Francis, treasurer; and Charles Blair, installed for his tenth year as secretary.

In his inaugural address Mr. Jowsey told of plans for a permanent building for the tourist information bureau which had been operated from a trailer during its first year.

Wieners, Smokes Theft. Haul

CHEMAINUS—Cigarettes, two dozen wieners, ham, radio, pair of boots and $35 in silver were missing after latest in a series of break-ins in Johansson Block shops in Chemainus.

Third raid in as many months came overnight Tuesday.

Police dog from Parksville was used in the hunt for thieves, and RCMP boarded ocean freighter Baron Harries in port as part of their investigation. Ship sailed at 7.30 a.m. yesterday when police found no sign of the missing items aboard.

Evanses Count 121 as Kin

(This is the second of a series of articles on the "Evanses" of the Cowichan Valley.)

By CHARLES THOMPSON

NORTH COWICHAN—

John N. Evans, pioneer of the Cowichan Valley, wouldn't like many aspects of modern living.

He would lament the public apathy towards civic affairs and the sporadic attitude children take toward learning. He loved newspapers, but he wouldn't like the amount of advertising that is now in them.

These were his main complaints, Miss Ruby Evans, 68, before he died in 1944 at the age of 97.

"Children have a cultural heritage in this area that they seem to be ignoring," says Miss Evans. "Father remembered the past in everything he did. He worked hard all the time and planned for the future. But he always had time for us kids (there were eight) and he liked us all to sit down and one would read aloud."

John N. Evans arrived in Victoria during June, 1864, two years after James and David, his two elder brothers.

Among his many jobs was herding cows on land that is now Beacon Hill Park. In 1871 he walked here from Victoria. Later the three brothers were joined here by their remaining brother, Harry. They were of Welsh coal-mining stock.

Miss Evans says today she has 121 nieces and nephews. In 1942 there were more than 200 second and third generation Evanses here.

There are more Evanses in the valley than Smiths, Jones,

Greens and Browns combined. "The family has always liked children," explained Miss Evans. This year R. B. "Bert" Evans is head of the chamber of commerce, and a cousin, R. E. "Bob" Evans is president of the Legion.

John N. Evans worked harder than anyone else towards the formation of the municipality—the second oldest in B.C.—that then included the city.

He was reeve for a total of 16 years spread over 44 years, starting in 1884. Between terms on the council he was usually a school board trustee.

He was a small "I" Liberal who was so popular he was voted "at the drop of a hat" to the legislature "when this district was of good English, Conservative stock," says Miss Evans.

better" in those days with rousing meetings that drew crowds. Everyone was against one-party meetings.

"People who didn't vote were few in those days. Father and W. C. Duncan—whom the town was named after—walked to Cowichan Bay to vote in the first federal election in 1871. They had to go through the flats when it was flooded, like the one we had last week, but they voted," Miss Evans said.

Mr. Evans didn't like ads in newspapers. "He said they couldn't run without ads, but he always said the Vancouver papers had too much paper and not enough news," she said. "In those days everyone did a lot of reading and newspapers were read from cover and cover and then saved for those who couldn't afford them."

Driver Gets 30-Day Oakalla Term

NANAIMO—George Henry Brown received a 30-day Oakalla term yesterday after being convicted of impaired driving. He lost his driving privileges for six months.

Brown, court was told, hit a parked car. Then he went to sleep in the home of the owner while police were called.

Bust Terrible or Wonderful? Viewers Disagree

Peggy Walton Packard's bust of Queen Elizabeth is like many things at city hall—about 50 per cent of those who see it think it's good and about 50 per cent think it isn't. That's the score according to city employees who have listened to the comments of passersby in the entrance hall, where the statue stands waiting for council to say if it should stay there, be placed in Beacon Hill Park as originally intended or be sent to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. The decision probably will be made next Thursday. Meanwhile — and perhaps thereafter — observers will continue to disagree on its merits.

"Some say it's terrible and some say it's a wonderful likeness," said one city employee. "But most people don't like the rectangular column forming part of it." Mrs. Packard herself is on record as not being too enthusiastic about the results of her work. But Colin Graham, curator of the art gallery, took a different view yesterday. "From photographs," he said, "I thought it was ghastly. But when I went down and looked at it I found the case very much different. I find the expression on the face a very pleasant one." A good likeness? "Well," he said, "every photograph of the Queen is different."

A commission such as this, Mr. Graham said, "always presents the hardest problem an artist can face. It has to be a likeness and a work of art, and fit into a particular position. From an artistic point of view, that's a great problem."

North Saanich Destiny: Finest Residential Area

The Social Credit government was called upon yesterday to complete a first-class road around the Saanich Peninsula, to provide a bi-lateral north-south road from West Saanich Road along Interurban Road to the Trans-Canada Highway.

North Island

Highway Location Criticized

The highway extension opening up the northern end of Vancouver Island has been proposed in the wrong location and with the wrong terminus, according to former mayor Claude Harrison.

Following the east coast north of Kelsey Bay, he told the Colonist, would be "the gravest mistake," and the terminus and ferry centre should be Port McNeill, not Port Hardy to the northwest.

LOCATION VITAL

"It is vital that the road be in the proper location if Vancouver Island is to be anything," he said.

The coast between Kelsey Bay and Port McNeill, he said, is extremely difficult terrain, and without harbours. A far better way to reach Port McNeill would be by Upper Campbell Lake, the Heber River valley and the Nimpkish trench through the centre of the island, skirting west of Nimpkish Lake over an old rail grade.

The terminus, he said, must have a good harbor, and Hardy Bay is open to the northeast, exposed to a "great sweep" of open water. Port McNeill is guarded by Ledge Point and a chain of islands, and is in a better location, Mr. Harrison said, to serve a large population on the mainland and coastal islands.

Don't Invite Thefts Oak Bay Warned

A warning to stop leaving invitations to burglars was issued last night by Chief Robert Smith of Oak Bay following reports of four break-ins in the municipality.

The burglaries apparently all occurred overnight Tuesday, although two were not reported until late Wednesday. In each case, they took place while the occupants of the houses were out, and it is not known exactly what or how much was stolen.

No More Sympathy

DUNCAN—A laundry truck driver was warned in court yesterday he will not get any sympathy if he appears in Magistrate C. L. Anderson's court within the next 12 months.

"If I take your licence I take your job," he told Vernon Weismiller, who pleaded guilty to a charge of driving at 50 in a 30 m.p.h. zone. "You won't get any sympathy from me here or in Lake Cowichan within the next 12 months."

Weismiller was fined $25. The offence took place Tuesday on Gibbins Road.

PORT ALBERNI—William Mandryk, 46, of Parkville died in West Coast General Hospital Monday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Mandryk, a native of Romania, had been employed as a logger by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. until the time of his illness.

He leaves his widow, Bertha Irene; two sons, Neil and Billy; three daughters, Becky, Nikki and Christina, all at the family home, Ford Street, Parkville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mandryk, Regina; two brothers, Victor, Victoria; and Harry, Regina.

Rites will be held in Kingdon Hall, Parkville, at 3 p.m. Saturday with Amos Rosvold officiating. Cremation will follow.

NANAIMO—Victorian Order of Nurses has named its new officers for 1960. Oliver Newmarch was re-elected president. Other officers are: W. P. Wickett, governor; W. G. Tippet and Max C. Blunt, vice presidents; Mrs. W. Powell, secretary; Haol Eakin, treasurer.

City manager C. C. Wyatt yesterday asked Greater Victoria school board to join Victoria, Oak Bay and Saanich in future wage negotiations with employees. ### Over Local Station

All Victoria May See Televised Classes

Teachers Dismayed?

Greater Victoria school board was asked yesterday to study the possibility of broadcasting its proposed program of televised lessons over the local station.

The proposal won some support from schools superintendent John Gough, but he felt teachers might be dismayed at the thought of parents being able to watch their teaching lessons on home TV sets.

REVISED COSTS

W. C. Gelling, school board chairman, said trustees would look into the matter and promised to bring before individual councils revised cost estimates if the "open circuit" project proved feasible.

Yesterday's meeting, attended by representatives of all four local municipalities, was called to discuss the 1960 school budget of $7,909,429 but, as expected, most of the discussion centred around the $19,550 earmarked for a pilot closed-circuit TV project at S. J. Willis Junior High School starting in September.

CART FIRST?

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay charged trustees with "putting the cart before the horse" in failing to consider the over-all cost of a closed-circuit system serving a number of schools.

"I know a little about TV, it's my business," said the reeve. "I'm convinced that a child can learn more in a few minutes with TV than he can in several hours with a textbook."

EIGHT MILES

But the reeve said it would take eight miles of coaxial cable worth some $33,000 just to pipe lessons into the half dozen junior high schools in the area.

"From conversations I have had with station officials, I'm pretty certain CHEK-TV would permit use of its facilities to broadcast lessons in the morning . . . at a very good rate," Reeve Murdoch said.

COMPROMISE

Mr. Gough said of the proposal for public circuit broadcasts to schools, "I frankly don't like it as much as a closed circuit, but we may have to compromise."

And he added if councils would leave the $19,550 in the budget TV lessons could start in all schools this year.

TO WORLD

It was then that Mr. Gough questioned "the desirability of our staff teaching to the world."

"You and I don't have to do our job before the eyes of the world. You may say it's the teachers' job. I don't agree with you. I think you will find the majority of teachers are reticent in this matter."

ACCEPT CHALLENGE

"I'm sticking my neck out," said Trustee R. H. Reeve. "I have confidence in our teachers. I believe that many of them will accept this challenge."

Mr. Murdoch felt open-circuit televised lessons would have "parent appeal" and would provide instruction in the homes for ill pupils.

SHOULD GO

Ald. Austin Curtis said the program of televised lessons "would be a wonderful thing, but it isn't absolutely necessary," therefore, in keeping with city council policy, the item should be removed from the budget.

Mr. Gelling said the board didn't expect the provincial government to share in the cost of the pilot project. He said if the department of education sponsored Greater Victoria's program of TV lessons then other school districts in the province would demand the same treatment.

A "dry run" for MLAs is planned by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi on the new government ferry Sidney, now in final stages of completion by Victoria Machinery Depot before being turned over for service on the Sidney-Tsawwassen run. Mr. Gagliardi says there will be no bars or other liquor facilities on the government ferries.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

To Expand Home Nursing

VON, Public Health Nurses To Work as Team—Martin

The Victorian Order of Nurses and the public health nursing services will work together to expand home-nursing service in British Columbia, Health Minister Eric Martin announced yesterday.

The VON now operates a home-nursing service in the Victoria and Vancouver areas, and isolated coverage in rural areas.

Public health officials will co-operate with VON authorities to expand home-care programs in the areas now served by the VON, Mr. Martin said.

Basic public health nursing services also include a home-nursing program which provides a firm foundation upon which services can be expanded, it was pointed out.

An expanded home-nursing program is in operation in nine areas of the province now. This year's estimates show home-care health services are to receive $114,000, an increase of $102,000 to launch the program in all other areas.

Mr. Martin said the government is planning a program to aid non-profit groups in providing more nursing home beds, much like the system used by the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service to spur construction to provide more hospital beds.

A decentralized type of nursing assistance to enable many patients to stay in their own homes and close to family and friends was the aim, Mr. Martin said.

An intensive survey is being planned to pinpoint the number of nursing home beds available in each community area, and to estimate the requirements.

"We hope to proceed at quite a fast pace," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin said nursing home patients who require good nursing care and periodic medical attention, but have little chance of complete cures, will not come under the chronic care program going into effect this year.

The proposed plan will be known as "the rehabilitation, chronic treatment, and convalescent plan," Mr. Martin said.

Chronic patients who require in-patient hospital care, but not in major hospitals, also will get attention, Mr. Martin added.

He said a patient of 75 who has a reasonable possibility of improvement to the extent that he can return home for even a few months, will be considered a rehabilitation patient just as much as a youth who will be fit enough to take employment when his treatments have been completed.

'Future at Stake'

New Highway Route Worry to Sidney

Sidney-North Saanich chamber of commerce is worried about the route of the new Swartz Bay highway and its position in relation to the village.

Chamber president Gordon Hulme said last night no answer had been received to the joint chamber and village commission brief submitted to the government some weeks ago asking the route of the new highway to the Swartz Bay ferry.

Mr. Hulme said a location had been laid out by surveyors that had the road coming out at Sanscha Hall on Eighth Avenue.

Member S. R. Gibbs said the immediate future of Sidney depends on that section of the highway.

LONDON (UPI)— Buckingham Palace announced today that Queen Elizabeth's doctors went to the palace at 1 a.m. PST and were still with the sovereign more than an hour later.

A source close to the palace said the birth would be today "even if it has to be induced."

Victim Near Death

An elderly Victoria man whose clothing caught fire from a hotplate was fighting for life in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night, suffering from severe burns to the upper body.

Richard O'Connell, about 70, his clothing burned away to the waist, was dragged from his room at the Lincoln Hotel by another guest at the hotel who did not wish to be identified. The elderly man had apparently fallen over against the hot plate.

SAW SMOKE

"I was sitting in my room when the lights went out, and I went out to the hall to see what happened," his rescuer said. "I saw smoke coming out from under one of the doors, so I went downstairs to get the landlord to open the door, and called the fire department."

"When I got in I found him lying on the floor in the middle of the flames. I dragged him out and the fire department came."

There was no damage to the room except for a hole in the linoleum where the hot plate had rested.

U.S., Russia Allies Soon?

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Dr. Stewart Irbey, exchange professor from the University of Hong Kong, says there is a possibility of an alliance between the U.S. and Russia at the expense of Communist China.

He said the alliance may come because Russia is disturbed at Red China's policy of keeping the pot boiling with such incidents as the Indian border dispute.

Crash Cause Still Mystery

TORONTO (CP)—A week-long investigation has not established whether Malton airport's instrument approach system was not working when a TCA Super Constellation crashed Feb. 10, Ray Goodwin, director of civil aviation, said Wednesday.

The plane was damaged but 59 persons escaped injury when the undercarriage collapsed.

GENEVA (UPI)—Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said yesterday that he "conditionally welcomed" President Eisenhower's statement that the new Soviet proposal at the nuclear test ban talks here was less rigid than earlier ones.

Tsarapkin said that the President's comment on the Soviet plan for a comprehensive test ban was a "good reaction."

In yesterday's session of the talks, American delegate James J. Wadsworth warned Tsarapkin that the United States Senate would not ratify a test ban treaty unless it provided for an "enormous" number of inspections.

A Saanich pioneer, whose life-long home and belongings were wiped out by fire yesterday, faces the prospect today of having to start all over again at the age of 81.

Thomas S. Francis has few financial resources and all his clothes were burned except what he had on when he returned from his mail box to see his six-room frame dwelling going up in smoke.

Even his four cats were lost, the elderly man said sadly, "unless they took to the woods along with the chickens."

Mr. Francis has no close relatives in the area as far as could be determined last night.

He is temporarily staying at a nursing home operated by Mrs. Geddes Bissett, 402 Brookleigh.

The fire was reported at 11:45 a.m. by a passing motorist and reported to Saanich fire department.

Mr. Francis was then at least a quarter-mile away at his mail box.

"I was only away from the house for about half an hour," he said. "When I came back the whole business was on fire."

The only money he had was carried with him on his mail call. His only income is a meagre pension.

Brothers of Mr. Francis built the historic house in 1890 after the family moved from a log cabin on the same property in which he was born.

McGee's Life Threatened Over Death Penalty Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank McGee, Toronto MP whose bill to abolish the death penalty for murder will be debated today in the Commons, received a letter Wednesday threatening to "get" him or some of his family if his bill is passed.

The letter came to the 33-year-old Progressive Conservative member for York-Scarborough from a Montreal address and was unsigned. However, the envelope bore a return address and a man's name.

Mr. McGee, who has a wife and three children, informed the office of Justice Minister Fulton of the threat.

The letter is the first such threat he has received since he became interested in parliamentary abolition of the death penalty for murder. He introduced bills for abolition at the last session of parliament and again this session.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Superior Court divorce survey shows half the people involved in divorce were from broken homes themselves. Forty-three per cent of the parties knew each other less than a year prior to marriage. In 95 per cent of such cases, either the husband or wife, or both, did not attend church regularly. Three of four court reconciliations remained permanent.

Silence Hinders Police

SEATTLE (AP)—An inquest into the death of a stevedore foreman was ordered Wednesday after police reported a "code of silence" on the waterfront had stalled their investigation.

Coroner Leo M. Sowers said the inquest will be conducted Friday in the case of Otto L. Bloss, 61, who died Sunday after a fall from a ship.

WORK HALTS

Meantime, the Ship and Foremen's Association of Washington stopped work for 24 hours, starting at 8 a.m. Wednesday, for Bloss's funeral. The action held up cargo handling of 14 ships and about 1,000 waterfront workers in Puget Sound and Grays Harbor were idle.

Detective Capt. Charles A. Rouse, who requested the inquest, said an important witness has vanished.

REPORTS PERSIST

He said there are persistent reports that a man knocked Bloss over the side of the ship after an argument over hours the longshore crew was to work.

City Home Robbed Of $1,650 in Cash

Wave of house breakings in Greater Victoria continued last night when $1,650 in cash was stolen from the home of John Slenko, 15 Gorge Road East, between 5 and 8 p.m.

Mr. Slenko and his wife left home for dinner at 5 p.m. and returned at 8 p.m. to find bureau drawers open and savings missing.

Detectives said seven $100 bills and 19 $50 bills were taken along with a revolver, thought to be of .32 or .38 calibre.

NEWCOMERS

The Slenko's recently moved into their new home after coming from Alberta and were waiting for window curtains to be made.

Entry was gained by forcing a rear window with a screwdriver.

Several bureau drawers were opened in a bedroom, one of which contained an envelope holding the money. The revolver was taken from a drawer in a second bedroom.

Mr. Slenko told detectives he had planned to put the money in the bank Thursday after reading reports of numerous house breakings in the Greater Victoria area.

11-Year Fight Nearing End

SAN QUENTIN (UPI)—The California Supreme Court yesterday killed the last apparent chance of kidnaper-rapist Caryl Chessman to escape death in the gas chamber on Friday.

Gov. Edmund Brown, to whom Chessman made a "conscience" appeal for life earlier yesterday, said that "unless the court takes some further action I have no power to grant clemency under the constitution and the question is closed."

The court earlier rejected by a 4-3 vote a request that it back up Chessman's appeal to Brown. California law requires that in cases such as Chessman's, involving conviction on two or more felonies, the high court and the governor must agree on clemency.

George Davis, one of Chessman's attorneys, refused to give up hope.

"Any time a man's life hangs in the balance by one vote in a case as important as this he deserves the benefit of the doubt. I'm certainly going to try to find a way out."

In a day of rapid-fire developments, Chessman lost a "last chance" appeal to the United States Supreme Court. In a dramatic turnabout, he appealed personally to Brown and said that his 11½-year battle in the courts was ended.

"I ask you to do whatever your conscience dictates that you should. Mine tells me that I again must affirm the fact that I'm not the red light bandit even if the price of that affirmation is death," he wired the governor.

Chessman was convicted in Los Angeles in 1948 of 17 counts of kidnapping, sex perversion, robbery and attempted rape with bodily harm. His execution is scheduled for Friday.
